Reds Said Routed As Chiang Wins Battle of Suchow

Nationalist Losses 40,000 Men; Communists Reported Regrouping

NANKING, Nov. 18 (AP).—A complete Government victory was proclaimed today in the fateful battle of Suchow. Masses of Chinese Communists were reported surrendering or retreating after suffering 130,000 casualties.

Maj.-Gen. Chang Liu-Shih, military spokesman, asserted that Communist troops north, east and south of the big base had been broken into small bands and were grounding arms. He listed Government casualties at 40,000 men.

More sober opinion among Chinese officials is that the Government won the first round in ten days of combat. The Communists were believed withdrawing to regroup for a probable second assault.

SAFE FOR A MONTH

Even the pessimists conceded that Nanking is safe for at least one more month. Optimists declared Chiang Kai-Shek's fortunes are bounding after it looked as if the day was lost.

The Communist radio, for the first time since the battle broke, made no new claims of victory. As heard by The Associated Press at San Francisco, it was content with rehashing events of three days ago.

A new possible trouble spot cropped up. A Shanghai report said a Communist truck column had been spotted moving toward Tsingtao, the United States naval anchorage which is being reinforced by 1,250 United States marines from Guam. Tsingtao is 225 miles northeast of Suchow.

PERHAPS FOR COAL

Officials in Nanking said they had heard the report. It was suggested the trucks might be headed for the Poshan mines west of Tsingtao to pick up coal.

Chang told his press conference that "the battle for Suchow can be considered as concluded," but added "What the Communists will do now is a subject of conjecture."

It seemed clear that a grave tactical error by the usually-adroit Gen. Chen Yi, who commands the Communist armies of East China, and wily one-eyed Gen. Liu Po-Chang, Red commander in Central China, proved costly.

Chen deployed his troops on the plains east of Suchow in clear weather, and the Chinese air force struck them with all it had—more than 100 bombers and fighter bombers.

Liu, whose troops attacked from the south, likewise found no cover from the aerial storm.

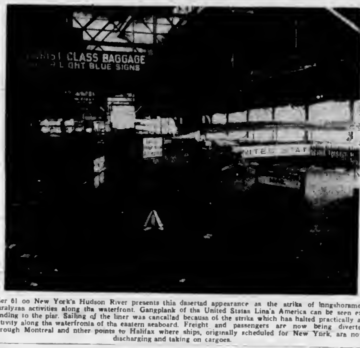

U.S. Move Steps Up China Aid

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18 (AP).—United States aid to China was stepped up today with a pledge of wheat, flour and rice for some of her hungry millions.

The Economic Co-operation Administration announced that 12 emergency shiploads of approximately 120,000 tons of foodstuffs are being sped to key cities in North and Central China.

The shipments will provide enough to feed the 12,270,000 residents of the seven principal cities of China.

Strike Stills Life on New York Pier

Pier 61 on New York's Hudson River presents this deserted appearance as the strike of longshoremen paralyzes activities along the waterfront. Gangplank of the United States Line's America can be seen extending to the pier. Sailing of the liner was cancelled because of the strike which has halted practically all activity along the waterfronts of the eastern seaboard. Freight and passengers are now being diverted through Montreal and other points to Halifax where ships, originally scheduled for New York, are now discharging and taking on cargoes.

Victoria Shipyards Set To Take Active Part In Navy Building Plans

Able to Handle Construction Of Small Ships, Officials Say

Victoria shipyards are ready to take an active part in the proposed shipbuilding plan for the Royal Canadian Navy, officials of two major shipyards declared last night.

Questioned concerning an Ottawa report that Canada plans to increase her naval strength, Victoria shipbuilders said orders to be filled here would be contingent on the Federal Government making available a steady flow of steel.

For months, it was explained, activities of Victoria shipyards have been drastically curtailed because of the difficulty of obtaining steel supplies. During the World War, local shipyards employed thousands of workers filling Federal Government orders.

Since the end of the war, however, the companies have found it necessary to cut personnel to a point where only several hundred are now employed. Shipbuilders have been forced to enter bids on other types of work, rather than to close down completely.

Spokesmen for Yarrows Ltd. and Victoria Machinery Depot said local yards could handle swiftly orders for any type of small ship, such as submarines, corvettes and frigates.

NO OFFICIAL WORD

Officials said they had received no official word from Ottawa regarding the proposed naval expansion program.

The Ottawa report yesterday quoted an official source as stating some anti-submarine vessels would be added to the Royal Canadian Navy. He could not indicate whether they would be corvettes or frigates, used by Canada in her wartime anti-submarine campaign.

In Boston, Rear Admiral E. R. Mainguy, Flag Officer, Atlantic Coast, declared on Wednesday, "As far as I know a shipbuilding program in Canada hasn't begun as yet, but the program of expansion will go into effect."

He said the Navy would be expanded "because of the international situation."

FOR U.S. NAVY

Shipyard officials in Victoria also expressed hope that small ships will be built for the United States Navy in Canadian yards.

It was stated any such shipbuilding program would provide additional employment for hundreds of workers in Victoria if local yards are given a share of orders.

Recently the Canadian Shipbuilders and Ship Repairers' Association submitted a brief to the National Defence Board, pointing out that unless Government orders are forthcoming, several shipyards might have to close or be converted to other uses.

Object To Plans For Ruhr

PARIS, Nov. 18 (AP).—French fears that Britain and the United States are pushing German recovery too fast appeared today to be a greater danger to the French Government than the Communist strike problem.

The National Assembly's committee on foreign affairs protested violently the recent decision of the British and United States military government to return control of Ruhr coal mines and steel mills to German trustees.

The committee demanded that French representatives at the London six-power conference on the Ruhr take a stand not only for international control over distribution of the industrial area's coal and steel, but for "international technical and commercial control as well."

Foreign Minister Robert Schuman will be called before the Foreign Affairs Committee next week. He will have to do a lot of explaining to appease the Assembly.

George Marshall, United States Secretary of State, talked privately today with Britain's Hector McNeil, and it is understood French objections on the Ruhr were discussed.

Battledress Order "Routine"

OTTAWA, Nov. 18 (CP).—The army has placed orders for 160,000 battledress uniforms of the type that lets the private wear a necktie.

The orders, placed through the Canadian Commercial Corporation, Government purchasing agency for the Defence Department, affect six Eastern manufacturers.

Latest figures on manpower showed 33,000 men in the active and reserve armies. An army officer said the purchase indicated nothing more significant than the need to keep them clothed.

BULLETINS

Robs Theatre

VANCOUVER, Nov. 18 (CP).—An armed bandit tonight pulled the third theatre holdup in a fortnight and the 12th armed robbery in 15 days.

The gunman took $40.

Simultaneously with tonight's theatre holdup, Taxi Driver George Schneider was robbed of $16 by a gunman directly across the street.

Truman Confers

KEY WEST, Fla., Nov. 18 (AP).—President Truman and Defence Secretary James Forrestal went into a 45-minute huddle today on diplomatic and defence problems but postponed a discussion of the crisis facing the Chinese Nationalist Government.

Cunard Threatened By Striking Dockers

NEW YORK, Nov. 18 (CP).—The president of the International Longshoremen's Association charged today that the Cunard White Star Line is deliberately using the facilities of the port of Halifax and "the threat of Canadian laws" to break the United States East Coast waterfront strike.

Joseph P. Ryan, president of the I.L.A., told a press conference that if Cunard, operators of the Queen Elizabeth and Queen Mary, continued to divert ships to Halifax and then attempted to receive benefits of an agreement, "then they can keep their ships in Halifax after the strike is over."

Ryan said he had advised John V. Lyon, chairman of the New York Shipping Association, that Cunard would not be allowed to be a party to any agreement reached between the longshoremen and the New York shippers although the line belongs to the N.Y.S.A.

Asked what the I.L.A. would do if Cunard sent ships to New York after the strike is settled, Ryan invited reporters to "come down to the piers and see."

While prospects for a quick end to the crippling walkout of A.F.L. dock workers faded, Ryan was busy dispatching directions to the I.L.A. Halifax locals. He disclosed that he had directed the Halifax members not to violate Canadian law. But, he added, "we expect them not to act as strikebreakers and to do as their conscience dictates."

When the strike affecting 65,000 dock workers became effective eight days ago ships were diverted to Halifax. Later longshoremen there started a slowdown in sympathy with the United States strikers, then decided to continue working all ships docking at Halifax in accordance with their contract.

Meanwhile, Federal Mediator William Margolis, who was sent here in an effort to crack a deadlock over a new contract, predicted that the A.F.L. walkout would continue at least into next week.

One bright spot in the picture of the strike, which has closed ports from Maine to Virginia and has made heavy inroads into the East's industrial and commercial life, is a meeting tomorrow of Federal conciliators with representatives of shipowners and union.

Fear De Gaulle Threatens Aid Program

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18 (AP).—The strong "France first" views of Gen. Charles De Gaulle, now enhanced by his increased political power, are again becoming a source of sharp concern for senior United States officials.

Diplomatic authorities fear that if De Gaulle gains control of the French Government his policies will jeopardize (1) success of the European Recovery Program and (2) development of the projected North Atlantic Defence Alliance.

Considerable interest was aroused among State Department officials by De Gaulle's comment to a press conference that while he approves of the Marshall Recovery Plan it must not be allowed to displace "the essential interests of France."

No one in authority here seems to consider it possible that De Gaulle would pull France out of the Recovery Program. What the policy-makers are afraid of is that if he were in power, the French leader would tend to disrupt international co-operation by an uncompromising attitude.

Trend Taking Canada Into U.S. Arms Orbit

OTTAWA, Nov. 18 (CP).—Recent indications point up a postwar trend that appears to be taking Canada deeper and deeper into the United States military orbit in contrast to the traditional policy of adhering to the United Kingdom's concept of arms and equipment.

While she has been pressing steadily for a general Allied standardization of arms, Canada has simultaneously been seeking an integration of current military production with the United States.

Observers here are watching closely the current visit of Trade Minister Howe in Washington, where he made it clear yesterday that Canada and the United States are working towards "setting up new supply lines on a common pattern."

The aim, Mr. Howe indicated at a press conference, is to make Canadian equipment interchangeable with American items.

Informed quarters here, noting the implications of Mr. Howe's trip, said it was "obvious" that Canada's defence production could not adequately be carried out if it depended solely on supplying the Canadian forces with weapons. This is because there is hardly a single weapon which can be made economically here if production is only for domestic use.

This factor, they also became apparent during the war. Canada made what she could and obtained what else she needed from other countries, notably Britain and the United States. The skills of the three countries were integrated to make the best use of the capacities of all.

Canada already uses tanks of American design as well as the Thompson sub-machine gun, some types of field guns and a number of aircraft, including Catalina flying boats, transport Dakotas and Mustangs.

However, the trend is not entirely towards American-made equipment. The United States has indicated some interest in Canadian-made material as well, such as that relating to Arctic warfare.

Canada economically could make any weapons up to medium guns.

Israel 'Welcomes' Talks But Rejects U.N. Order

TEL AVIV, Nov. 18 (AP).—Israel told the United Nations tonight it would refuse to order all its armed forces out of the Negev, Palestine's southern desert region.

The Israeli Cabinet's reply to a Security Council order to withdraw Jewish troops to specified lines and create a demilitarized zone in the Negev was given after a long session.

At the same time Israel welcomed peace negotiations. It urged the United Nations to say where and when Israeli representatives could meet with Arab spokesmen "to begin negotiations for a permanent peace."

WOULD NEGOTIATE

The Israeli Cabinet also offered to negotiate with United Nations observers on the possible withdrawal of its forces in the southern coastal area which lies northwest of the Negev region.

In reply to the council order, the Jewish state noted "with satisfaction" that it was not asked to withdraw from the Negev any of the forces it had there "before October 14 to safeguard the security and independence of Israel and to protect its inhabitants."

Tonight in Paris the acting Palestine mediator, Dr. Ralph Bunche, asked Israel and the seven Arab states to begin negotiations for an armistice to replace the present Holy Land truce.

The Israeli position will have to be studied by Dr. Bunche before he makes any further recommendations.

Rate Defended By Winnipeg

WINNIPEG, Nov. 18 (CP).—Arguments against removal of the mountain differential on freight rates were contained in a joint submission of the city of Winnipeg and Winnipeg Chamber of Commerce made here today to the Board of Transport Commissioners.

The board opened a regional hearing on application of the Province of British Columbia for removal of the mountain differential.

C. D. Shepard, representing Manitoba, reiterated Premier D. L. Campbell's statement that the Provincial Government would submit no brief at the present hearing.

W. P. Fillmore, representing Winnipeg and its Chamber of Commerce, said in presenting the joint submission the mountain differential affects only 14.7 per cent of the traffic, and that under the present freight structure British Columbia and Vancouver in particular, have enjoyed a great era of prosperity and growth.

Should the mountain differential be removed, the loss in revenue suffered by the railways would be saddled on the Prairie Provinces, the brief contended.

It termed the mountain differential "part and parcel of the whole freight rate problem."

Puts Off Plan For Demolition

PRINCE RUPERT, Nov. 18 (CP).—War Assets Corporation, the Chamber of Commerce learned today, is apparently deferring any move towards permitting demolition of United States war-built waterfront installations until January 15.

There will be no advertising until that date, the chamber was advised.

Island Driver Struck by Log

LADYSMITH, Nov. 18 — James Robertson, Fifth Avenue, Ladysmith, foreman at the Nanaimo Lakes operation of the Comox Logging & Railway Co. Ltd., lies in Nanaimo General Hospital in a critical condition as the result of an accident on one of the camp roads.

While driving a light truck, he failed to notice that a log gate across the road had become unfastened. One of the logs passed through the windshield and struck him on the head with terrific force. Hospital authorities reported late at night that he would be flown to Vancouver for special treatment on Friday, provided that he was in condition to be moved.

Britain Rejects Queries On Berlin Funds Tangle

PARIS, Nov. 18 (AP).—Official United Nations sources disclosed today that Britain has turned a cold shoulder to requests from Secretary-General Trygvie Lie for information on how the Berlin deadlock arose in the United Kingdom.

Juan A. Bramuglia of Argentine, on the other hand, was meeting with success where Lie failed.

Informants said British financial experts were expected to come to Paris from London and Berlin soon to help investigate how the East-West currency dispute arose in Berlin. United States experts have also been called.

This action was taken after Bramuglia, leader of the efforts by the six "neutral" powers—Canada included—on the Security Council to find a formula for settling the Berlin crisis, submitted a 12-point questionnaire to the four powers involved.

The questionnaire seeks to establish how the currency tangle arose between Russia and the West in Berlin last October after four powers had agreed in principle in Moscow on how the differences should be settled.

The informants said that when Lie presented a similar request to the British delegation he got a "quite discouraging" reply. The French response was described as "enthusiastic," with Russian and United States agreement more cautious.

Deaths in Sea Held Accident

DUNCAN, Nov. 18 — Accidental death by drowning was the verdict returned by a coroner's jury at an inquest tonight into the death of three crew members of the tug St. Clair during Tuesday's gale. The men were Chief Engineer Carl Janson, Mate James L. Hudson and Cook Levi Arnott. All were from Vancouver.

Struye Quits Shaky Cabinet

BRUSSELS, Nov. 18 (AP).—Justice Minister Paul Struye resigned today. The action threatened the collapse of Belgium's shaky Catholic-Socialist Coalition Government. Struye resigned after parliamentary debate on his policy of clemency towards former pro-German collaborators.

Drew Labels C.B.C. Ruling Example Of "Serious Curbs on Free Speech"

OTTAWA, Nov. 18 (CP).—George Drew and the C.B.C. disagreed today on whether he should be allowed to buy provincial network radio time to discuss Ontario's power shortage.

The C.B.C. said in a statement that its "White Paper" prevented it from selling network time for discussion of "controversial and political matters." It added that Mr. Drew could speak next Monday evening on the C.B.C. free-time broadcast set aside for political discussions.

The Progressive Conservative leader replied with a charge that the C.B.C. statement was "simply another example of the serious restrictions on free speech which now exist in this country."

He said he will avail himself "of other channels which still are open for the purpose of conveying to the people of Ontario the information to which they are entitled."

His request for broadcast time, made last night, arose from a statement last week-end by Trade Minister Howe that Mr. Drew, as former Premier of Ontario, is to blame for the power shortage.

Replying to the C.B.C., Mr. Drew made this statement:

"I am well aware of the contents of the 'White Paper,' under which arrangements could have been made for the type of broadcast for which I applied, and for which I was prepared to pay. I believe that the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation are aware that I am no longer Premier of Ontario and, consequently, the free time on a provincial network Monday is not available to me for this purpose.

OTHER CHANNELS

"This is simply another example of the serious restrictions on free speech which now exist in this country. I will avail myself of other channels which are still open for the purpose of conveying to the people of Ontario the information to which they are entitled.

"I might add that the subject is hardly controversial in the sense implied in the telegram I have received, as Mr. Howe's inaccurate statements last Saturday are flatly contradicted by an official publication dealing with the same subject and issued by his own authority."

Children Leave Blockaded Berlin

German children wave from an airlift plane as they leave Britain's Gatow Airdrome in Berlin for foster homes outside the blockaded capital. A program to spare children from cold and scant food supplies in the coming Winter was worked out by American and British welfare officials. German parents wishing to send children from the city can do so on a promise they will not ask to bring them back until the blockade ends.

Will Move Port Nelson South for Steel Salvage

THE PAS, Man., Nov. 18 (CP).—If plans of the recently-formed Port Nelson Salvage Company of Toronto materialize, the entire "ghost village" of Port Nelson on the shores of Hudson Bay will be dismantled and shipped south, the movement spurred by Canada's shortage of structural steel and building supplies.

Discussions now are going on between company officers and freighting experts of Northern Manitoba regarding the problems involved in moving the village—including a 17-span bridge—to Mile 352 on the Hudson Bay Railway. Port Nelson is 60 miles from the railway which once served it.

Largest single project would be moving the bridge, which connects the mainland with an artificial island dropped into Hudson Bay from the end of the massive structure as a loading platform for deep-water vessels.

Drifting silt caused the abandonment of Port Nelson's harbor in favor of the Port of Churchill.

During the Great War, when the 40-room hotel and the neat dwellings were new, trackage connected Port Nelson with the Hudson Bay Railway near Weir River.

The tracks were torn up long ago to swing toward Churchill. It is over this route that a fleet of tractor swings would haul between 7,500 and 9,000 tons of steel and lumber.

It is reported the salvage company has purchased the port from the Federal Government.

The firm hopes, it is said, to freight out to the railway this Winter 2,500 tons of much-needed building material, bringing the remainder out over next Winter's ice.

Canadian Missionaries Trapped by Communists

Fifty-seven Roman Catholic missionaries are trapped by advancing Chinese Communist armies. Nuns have also been captured and others are endangered. Seen at left is Father Philippe Cota of Montreal, who is in charge of captured mission. Centre is Greta Clark, off Peterboro, Ont., missionary of Protestant Episcopal Church. She is one of four women missionaries sent to Shanghai when threat of trouble became imminent. At right is Rev. J. Oscar Doyou, of Cornwall, Ont., captured by Chinese near Snchow.

Woman Honored For Explorations

EDINBURGH, Nov. 18 (CP). —An American explorer who now is a grandmother was honored tonight by the Royal Scottish Geographical Society for her work in Canada.

The explorer, Mrs. Mary Henry of Pennsylvania, was awarded the Royal Society's Mungo Medal for her "work in exploring hitherto unmapped areas of Northern British Columbia where she found and fixed several unknown mountains."

On her trip through British Columbia several years ago, Mrs Henry covered more than 1,200 miles on horseback and afoot. One of the mountains she mapped now bears her name.

Infant Prince 'Healthy Baby'

LONDON, Nov. 18 (Reuters). — Princess Elizabeth's doctors, Sir William Gilliatt and Sir John Weir, tonight made the second of their two routine daily visits to Buckingham Palace. Nn bulletin was issued, but it was understood the princess and her baby were doing well.

After their earlier visit today the doctors issued this bulletin: "Princess Elizabeth has had a comfortable night and is continuing to do well. The infant prince is a healthy baby and is doing well."

This was the first direct reference describing the baby in an official bulletin, but visitors to the palace who had been near the royal nursery had testified that the young prince has a fine pair of lungs.

Vancouver Board Urges Pay Boost

VANCOUVER, Nov. 18 (CP). — A conciliation board majority report has recommended a pay boost of 10½ cents an hour plus cost-of-living bonus for 400 machinists in ten city plants today.

Original demand of the Machinists' Union (A.F.L.) was for 15 cents an hour.

Many Pilgrims Feared Drowned

PATNA India, Nov. 18 (Reuters) —Some 500 pilgrims were feared drowned today when a river steamer capsized on the sacred Ganges while returning from Sonepur Fair, the year's biggest Hindu festival.

The pilgrims, jam-packed on the lower deck of the vessel, were believed trapped when it capsized.

Survivors said the vessel was approaching the landing stage here when the passengers rushed to one side.

Egyptians Begin To Unload Ship

PORT SAID, Egypt, Nov. 18 (AP) — Egyptian authorities today began to unload the cargo of the American Victory ship Flying Trader. Authorities said they are confiscating the cargo because it was bound for Israel.

(The United States State Department in Washington said it is investigating the Egyptian action.)

The manifest of the 10,000-ton ship described the cargo as bound for Genoa, Italy. The Egyptians contended, however, that labels indicated the goods were destined for Tel Aviv.

TRUCK HITS HOUSE

VANCOUVER, Nov. 18 (CP). — A young Vancouver housewife escaped death while working in her kitchen today when a truck careened into the back yard and knocked the back porch of the house to splinters. Mrs. E. J. Reese, 24, said the house shook as though an earthquake struck it.

Fishing Firms Planning Invasion of Northlands

OTTAWA, Nov. 18 (CP).—A small invasion force of men, aircraft, snowmobiles and dog teams is ready to strike for a rich, wet prize—1,500,000 pounds of fish. D-Day is December 1.

That is the day the Winter fishing season opens at Great Slave Lake, Northwest Territories, fifth largest lake on the continent. The Fisheries Department said today it is expected to attract 1,500 fishermen, shoreworkers and transportation men.

George Clark, director of Pacific and inland fisheries, said eight big firms from Vancouver to Winnipeg as well as several small independent operators have mobilized 300 fishermen, five aircraft, 30 snowmobiles, half-tracks and dog teams to handle the catch.

The Winter catch quota is 1,000,000 pounds of whitefish and lake trout plus about 500,000 pounds carried over from the Summer season. Most of the take will be shipped fresh to markets in New York, Chicago and Detroit, with some for Canada.

Development of the lake as a commercial fishery began three years ago after Federal scientists investigated its possibilities and reported favorably. The department maintains a patrol service and is extending its inspection service to maintain quality standards.

Stage Protest Against Arms

VANCOUVER, Nov. 18 (CP) —Seventy University of British Columbia students today staged demonstrations against the shipment from here of 30 Mosquito bombers and airplane parts, bound for Nationalist forces in China.

Forty students picketed the post office, which they selected as the most important Federal building. They were members of the University's campus C.C.F., L.P.P. and Student Christian Movement clubs.

U.B.C.'s Student Council said the demonstrators did not represent the majority of any group. Thirty others picketed the Canadian freighter Islandside, on which the arms are to be shipped for Shanghai, Monday.

Seven missionaries are scheduled to sail with the Islandside. They include Mrs. E. G. Winder and her 12-year-old daughter, Helen, Toronto, and Betty Laing, Winnipeg.

Two Sentenced In Oil Fraud

WINDSOR, Ont., Nov. 18 (CP) — W. F. Bowman and W. H. Thibaudeau today were sentenced to six months in prison for illegal sale of Shunda Oil Limited stocks.

It was brought out in evidence that an estimated 3,000 people purchased 2,000,000 shares, paying $443,578.

To Face Trial On Banknotes

MONTREAL, Nov. 18 (CP) —Jean Alberic Corbeil, accused of making $18,000 in counterfeit banknotes, today was committed for Court of King's Bench trial.

Corbeil's wife, Marie Rose, pleaded guilty to uttering a counterfeit $10 bill, and was sentenced to time served in jail and fined $100 or in default of payment to serve two months of imprisonment.

Marcel Osboury, special R.C.M.P. prosecutor, informed Judge G. E. Guerin before that Mrs. Corbeil acted under the influence of her husband.

Says Belcher Taken Gifts

LONDON, Nov. 18 (Reuters). — Sidney Stanley, man of many aliases, took fruit, flowers and books to John W. Belcher, Parliamentary Secretary to the Board of Trade, the tribunal inquiring into alleged corruption in Government circles was told today.

Harry Sherman, governing director of Britain's third largest football pool's betting competition, said Stanley—who had promised to obtain for him an increased paper allocation—had taken the gifts to Belcher who was in hospital.

Questioned by Attorney-General Sir Hartley Shawcross, Sherman said he had also heard Stanley telephone Belcher's wife at her home.

Asked by what name Stanley addressed Mrs. Belcher, Sherman said "by her first name." When further pressed, he added: "Lulu."

Sherman told the tribunal he had considered his paper allocation unfair. Stanley had promised to see Belcher about it and gave an emphatic assurance that the paper position would be "put right."

Questioned by the Attorney-General, Sherman said he had loaned Stanley £5,000 ($20,000). One of the reasons for the loan was the fact that Stanley apparently had influence with Belcher and might have done something against Sherman's firm.

Driving Class

VANCOUVER, Nov. 18 (CP) —Automobile driving courses will be started shortly in 14 high schools on the British Columbia Lowrr Mainland. Funds will be provided by the Provincial Government with the stipulation the courses will be only of an experimental nature with no guarantee of continuation.

Pact on Nuts and Bolts Ends Industrial Feuding

NEW YORK, Nov. 18 (CP).—Lessons of the World War have caused Britain, Canada and the United States to end one phase of industrial feuding.

In Washington today, the three countries signed an agreement to standardize the threads in nuts, bolts and screws.

During the war, gun parts and other military necessities weren't interchangeable. They don't want that to happen again if trouble comes.

But the handicap of different threads goes beyond the military.

A British housewife with an American household appliance that happens to strip a thread or lose a bolt had to lay it aside until a repair part to fit was sent from New York. The American with a British-made car had to put it in the garage until the repair part with the proper screw arrived from London.

Americans, since 1884, have been making threads at a 60-degree angle that look like the teeth of a blunt saw. Britons, since 1831, have made theirs at a 55-degree angle and rounded in a hill-and-dale effect. Canada, buying heavily from both countries, had used both.

A move to standardize, dragging along since the other war days of 1918, got going again in 1943. At last a compromise has been worked out.

Industry is expected to go along with the agreement, since all will benefit by the uniformity. But it will take time to change over and the cost of tooling may run into several million dollars.

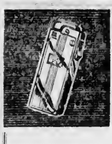

Greeks Install New Cabinet Of Sophoulis

ATHENS, Nov. 18 (AP) — A new Coalition Government of Populists and Liberals was sworn in today to replace a similar cabinet combination which resigned six days ago under the fire of dissident Liberals.

The cabinet again is headed by 88-year-old Premier Themistokles Sophoulis, leader of the Liberals. Populist (Royalist) leader Constantin Tsaldaris also retains the posts of deputy premier and Foreign Minister.

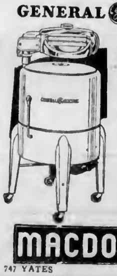

The Liberals took over the key position of Minister of War, which formerly had been filled by Populist George Stratos. Constantine Rentis, former Minister of Public Order, was given the job, with a Populist undersecretary.

Several former ministers took over new posts in a reshuffle aimed at strengthening the prosecution of the war against the Communist rebels. Criticism of the conduct of the war was one of the reasons for the fall of the old Coalition Government six days ago.

Says Blockade Distraction For War Moves

CINCINNATI, Nov. 18 (CP) —Max Eastman, one-time social revolutionist, told the American Federation of Labor convention today that the Kremlin is keeping the Berlin crisis at boiling point to distract attention from Soviet manoeuvres in the Far East.

Eastman's appearance before the convention was criticized by Bill Faber, secretary of the Ohio State Civic Rights Congress, in a statement to reporters.

Eastman, contributing editor of The New Leader and Reader's Digest, said he had lived in Russia for two years and once was a Communist sympathizer. He told the A.F.L. he had changed his views and that the competitive capitalist system is the "goose that lays the golden eggs."

Eastman said Washington diplomacy was "Sunday school sentimentalism" which has brought the United States to the edge of another war. He said the Republicans had "joined in the hymn singing."

Ambassador Given Praise

LONDON, Nov. 18 (AP) — Lewis Douglas, former principal and vice-chancellor of McGill University and now United States ambassador here, got a polite cheer today for subduing an ornery horse with a frightened woman aboard.

The animal, startled by traffic lights at Hyde Park's Albert Gate, reared in front of Douglas' car yesterday. The ambassador hopped out, grabbed the reins and led the plunging horse to the nearby Rotten Row bridle path.

Explained The Daily Mail: "Mr Douglas has been a rancher in Arizona."

DIES IN TORONTO

TORONTO, Nov. 18 (CP) —Dean of Canada's press photographers, William James of Toronto died last night in his 63rd year.

Born in Walsall, Staffordshire, England, he came to Canada in 1906 as a novice photographer and developed into one of Canada's most versatile and accurate photographers.

Suspect Ring Giving Help To Stowaways

MONTREAL, Nov. 18 (CP) —Possibility that an organized ring may be operating in Britain and the Continent to help stowaways board ships bound for Canada was suggested today by a spokesman for Montreal shipping companies, who said the companies intend to seek an investigation.

The spokesman said the companies intend to ask the Federal Government if it is possible to investigate existence of such a ring.

So far 39 stowaways have been caught in Montreal this season. Two stowaways arrested here in the last few days had their baggage with them and even musical instruments.

The shipping companies are said to be annoyed at the cost of maintaining the uninvited passengers. After the stowaway is turned over to immigration authorities here the shipowner is responsible for his maintenance until passage can be found for him back to the port where he boarded ship.

BIRKENHEAD, England (CP). — Reviving an old building-trades custom, R. O. Lloyd, a Birkenhead contractor, "stood" 250 workers a bottle of beer each to celebrate the completion of masonry work on the last of 420 houses on a corporation estate.

Junior Chamber Plans Revival For Yule Decorations Contest

The Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce will hold its Christmas lighting contest this year for the first time since the war, it was announced yesterday by Lou Williams, president.

The contest, open to all householders in Greater Victoria, was once one of the most popular events of the Christmas season. Object of the contest, Mr. Williams explained, is to stimulate interest in home decorations during the festive season.

A special committee headed by Fred Norris will handle this year's event.

Members of the committee point out decorations need not necessarily be elaborate, as "even a small effort" will help a great deal.

Rules of the contest are simple Decorations must be visible from the street, and in place by December 20 If illuminated, they must be lighted from 6 to 9 30 p.m. each night from December 20 to 25 inclusive.

On the night of December 23, a caravan of cars will be organized to follow a predetermined route to enable the general public to see all houses in the contest The caravan will be led by a "pilot" car, to be followed by the judges' cars.

Judging will be for the best decorated house, in each municipality.

Entry blanks may be obtained from the residential lighting committee of the Junior Chamber of Commerce by writing to P.O. Box No. 544. Victoria, or phoning E 7191.

Residents should enter their names, even if they do not wish to compete, so their houses may be included on the route of the caravan

TOTEM POLE

A totem pole topped by a Thunderbird may be placed on the new Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau building to be built at the north end of the Causeway by the Rotary Club.

A campaign to raise $20,000 toward the building was started early last Summer, and to date the club has collected $14,000. It is hoped the remaining $6,000 will be obtained in the near future.

Offices of the publicity bureau are now located beside those of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce in the new Black Ball Ferry Line dock building.

WINS MEDAL

W. J. Davey recently won a silver medal at the International Stamp Exhibition at Basle, Switzerland, for his book on Hawaiian postage stamps.

He first heard about the award from the New York Philatelic Society, later receiving the official statement from Switzerland in a booklet printed in German script.

The book, consisting of more than 400 pages, is the first authority on Hawaiian postage and includes the history of old sailing ships that carried the first mail across the Pacific. Illustrated with pictures of revenue stamps and forgeries, the book was started in 1935 and finally published in the United States last Summer.

Port Angeles Rotarians Feted in City

Wied Denies Attack on Wife; Claims He Didn't Handle Knife

Jacob E. Wied, 38-year-old carpenter charged with the murder of his wife, Evelyn, denied in Assize Court yesterday attacking his wife or even handling the knife believed to have caused a fatal wound in her neck.

Wied was put on the stand late yesterday afternoon by his counsel, Patrick J. Sinnott, and took half an hour to relate events of the late afternoon of July 17 when Mrs. Wied was found suffering from a knife wound at their room at 1025 Yates Street She died later in hospital.

The accused will be cross-examined this morning by Crown Counsel W. H. M. Haldane Mr. Sinnott said he had few other witnesses to call and the case is expected to go to the jury late this afternoon.

WENT UPSTAIRS

Wied testified he went upstairs to the bathroom for two or three minutes and on the way back thought he heard his wife cry out.

"I speeded down and opened the door," he said. "My wife was sitting near the end of the couch. She was leaning back against the wall. I asked 'Did you call me?' She didn't answer."

The accused recalled that he continued to prepare dinner on a gas plate behind a screen and received no answer when he spoke to tell her he would make the coffee.

"Shortly after that, she called my name—'Jake' or 'Oh, Jake' When I looked around my wife was getting off the couch. She didn't look natural. I noticed blood on her. She was falling down.

"I sat her down That's when my wife screamed. I never saw such an expression on my wife before She screamed twice in succession"

Wied said he opened her sweater and noticed blood, then got water and cloths and succeeded in stopping the bleeding.

WAS CRYING

"She was crying I asked her what happened. I never got an answer. She was in an awful state She was shaking"

The accused said he got a mirror from her purse and held it so his wife could see the wound. "It seemed to calm her down considerably.

"She was sick and perspiring. She told me 'Hold me, Jake.' I sat down beside her, said she would be all right. She asked for a doctor and I said all right."

Wied told the court that his wife was a heavy drinker and that they "got along well when there was no drink." although there was no argument on the night in question.

He said he came to Canada and British Columbia 19 years ago and married his wife here January 9, 1942

"I didn't know my wife very long before we were married. To me, she was the only woman. After we were married, I discovered the liquor. She used to drink heavy at times. At first I didn't do much about it because right after we were married she said the liquor helped relieve internal pains and the doctor had prescribed it. I discovered later it was probably an excuse and the drinking got worse.

"I tried to keep liquor away from the house. Then I try talking to her and asking her not to drink too much."

Wied said a court order had been obtained by the landlord to have them move on July 19 and that they were out of money temporarily and had not yet found a new place to live.

DESCRIBES WOUND

Earlier, Dr. Ross G. McNeely, pathologist at Royal Jubilee Hospital, said that Mrs. Wied's wound might have resulted from an attack, may have been self-inflicted or accidental.

"From the direction of the wound, and its appearance, I think it would be less likely to be self-inflicted and slightly less likely to be accidental"

He testified that in his opinion the right arm was raised at the time, but added that he could not see how a person could apply enough force to drive the knife in as far as it was.

He doubted if a fall to the floor could have caused the wound unless some object, like a chair, changed the direction of the knife He agreed a "fall into a wall" with the knife in hand could have caused the wound

Dr McNeely said death was caused by a haemorrhage in the chest which poured five pints of blood into the chest cavity and shifted the heart

Astronomical Union Good Example Of World Co-operation, Pearce Says

Co-operation between nations of the world is definitely possible and astronomers of many nations have proved this fact, Dr J. A. Pearce, director of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory told the Rotary Club yesterday at the Empress Hotel.

"Without co-operation their work would be impossible," he said.

His illustrated address dealt with a recent convention of the World Astronomical Union, at Zurich, Switzerland.

Twenty-two members and wives of the Port Angeles Rotary Club, headed by their president, H. H. Hankins, were special guests at the meeting They were welcomed by Louis Michelin, president of the Victoria club, and Mayor Percy E. George.

MADE PLANS

Dr. Pearce said 250 astronomers from 31 different countries met in Zurich to present progress reports and plan for the future in many specialized fields The astronomers union was divided into commissions, to study radial velocities, the sun and moon, planets and satellites, comets, meteors, wave lengths and eclipses.

A number of local astronomers, he said, had served on various commissions of the union.

The Dominion Astrophysical Observatory here, he said, had a file of 39,400 separate photographs of stars, taken to study their distances, motions, temperatures and sizes. All stars photographed were classified, he added.

The union was now gathering material for the publication of a new "star" catalogue, Dr. Pearce reported, which will list at least 14,000 stars, with what information known about them.

Entertainment at the luncheon included several vocal selections by Mrs M. Campbell.

Plans are now being made for the club's annual radio auction, to be held this year December 9 between 8 and 11 p.m over CJVI Proceeds go toward various club charities.

City Man Claims Credit For Walrus-Teeth 'Rush'

Walrus teeth might never have left the Arctic if Major David L. McKeand of Victoria had not stopped and examined a skull on the shores of Hudson Strait one day.

Major McKeand, speaking to the Oak Bay Kiwanis Club last night, claimed credit for accidentally starting the business of selling walrus teeth as novelties

"I stopped and looked at a walrus skull one day on a beach near Wakeham Bay, in Northern Quebec," Major McKeand recalled. "I looked it over, and was surprised to notice that there were cavities in the teeth.

Wondering why walruses, which eat no candy or soft foods of civilization, should have cavities, Major McKeand knocked the teeth out of the skull with a rock. He washed them off in the salt water, put them in his pocket, and turned them over to research scientists when he returned to Ottawa.

WAS FOLLOWED

The next time he was at Wakeham Bay an Eskimo followed him around for some time Major McKeand finally stopped behind a hill and, when the man came along, asked him what he wanted.

The Eskimo produced a bag full of walrus teeth. Major McKeand, not wanting to disappoint him, took him to the trading post and obtained half a pound of tea for them

"Later, when I was at a trading post in Hudson Bay, a company employee asked me what he should do with all the walrus teeth he had. He said Eskimos all over that section of the north were bringing bags full of walrus teeth to trading posts, saying I wanted them. They were given half a pound of tea for each bag.

"The Hudson's Bay Company had 1,400 pounds of walrus teeth and expected me to do something about them.

"I suggested a curio shop in Seattle, that I knew dealt in practically everything. The company tried them and, to their surprise and mine, the shop was interested. They bought the 1,400 pounds.

"The business of selling them as curios apparently prospered, for now there isn't a tooth left in a walrus skull in the whole eastern region of the Canadian Arctic."

Major McKeand for many years was superintendent of the Eastern Arctic and Government representative in the Arctic Archipelago.

REINDEER HERDS

He told club members of the acquisition and development of the reindeer herds in the Mackenzie River region in the Arctic.

Reindeer are more important to the Eskimos as clothing than as food, he said. Eskimos wear the hides with the fur next to the skin, and the hollow hairs absorb perspiration.

"When he goes to bed he hangs the hide outside the igloo, where frost freezes the moisture. In the morning he shakes the ice off and has a newly-laundered suit to wear

Major McKeand described abortive attempts to import reindeer to this continent, starting with the attempt of a Presbyterian minister in 1890. They were not successfully introduced to Canada until the Federal Government arranged for transfer of a large herd from Alaska to the Mackenzie River area.

Major McKeand praised this supervised migration, which took from 1929 until 1935. They have thrived in their new environment and he said that, at latest count, the herd had grown from its original 2,370 to more than 9,500

Major McKeand was introduced by C. C. Annett and thanked by Harold Webster

Dr. James Magrath, club president, reported to members on activities of the past year. These included preparation of ground for a playground, building of a paddling pool, addition of floodlights at Windsor Park, operation of a refreshment stand at Willows Park, presentation of the Oak Bay Chrysanthemum show and establishment of a women's auxiliary

C. A. Clements to Be Chairman Of Economic Round Table Talk

Charles A. Clements of Victoria, well-known economist, will direct discussion at the economic round table at the 11th annual conference of the Canadian Institute of International Affairs and the American Institute of Pacific Relations in the Empress Hotel on Saturday and Sunday.

The three-day conference will get under way tonight with an address of welcome by the mayor, and organizational business.

Chairman of the other round table, to discuss political events, will be Dr. Raymond B. Allen, president of the University of Washington.

Mr. Clements was a public relations executive for the Dominion Wartime Shipping Ltd. from 1942 to 1944. He has written extensively for magazines and newspapers.

WAS UNDERWRITER

He trained as an economist in Britain, where he was an underwriter of foreign commercial credits for British insurance companies. Later he helped set up the American Manufacturers' Foreign Credit Association and became a partner in a New York stock exchange firm.

After both wars he went to Europe to analyse postwar trade conditions.

One of his articles, "A Plan for Peace—With Prosperity," written and published in 1944, outlined a plan for the occupation of Germany that achieved wide recognition. He urged that American and British forces occupy Berlin and officially declare Germany and its people to be bankrupt under German and international law.

His plan suggested that Germany be occupied under an official receiver for the joint account of the Allies.

Mr. Clements' discussion group at the conference, like the political group, will concentrate on problems in China, Japan and Southeast Asia. One of the topics it will discuss involves postwar developments of Japanese and Russian fisheries, and the attitude toward their development taken by the United States and Canada.

They will study markets, trade opportunities, currency exchange and importing and exporting in Eastern countries.

Traffic Toll Shows Boost

Although traffic deaths during the first nine months of this year showed a sharp decrease, the number of accidents and property damage showed a pronounced increase during the same period, G. A Wood, superintendent of motor vehicles reported yesterday.

During the first nine months of this year, 106 persons were injured, or 19 less than in the same period last year Accidents during this period numbered 11,496 or 2,361 more than last year.

Property damage in the first nine months of the year was $2,027,191 compared with only $839,013 for the same period last year

Rousing Session Opens School Music Festival

The second annual Greater Victoria school music festival got off to a rousing start yesterday afternoon as some 400 Grade III, IV and V students gave free rein to their vocal chords.

After two solid hours of standing up to this youthful vocal reverberation, South Park School, location of yesterday's opening session, was still in good shape and the performance was termed "very successful" by commentator Frank Tupman and music supervisor Harry Bigsby.

Participating in the effort were children from Bank Street, Kingston Street, South Park and Sir James Douglas Schools.

Each class sang demonstration numbers such as "Rainbow Fairies," "The Wing Maker" and "The Troubador," as well as numbers of their own choice, including "The Traction Engine" and "Dandelion Clock."

OFFERED CRITICISM

Following each number, Mr. Tupman offered constructive criticism to the children as well as written advice to teachers handling the groups.

He praised the youngsters for their tone, brightness and good singing. Miss Louis, regional chairman for the South Park area, was also complimented for her fine work in making arrangements.

Teachers of the participating schools supplied accompanists. When the higher grades compete, accompanists will be picked from the student body to give them experience.

The festival will continue all next week, shifting to a different school in the Greater Victoria area each day.

All children will be singing and the festival is non-competitive, like that of last year.

Public concerts next week all start at 8 p.m. in Lampson Street and Tolmie Schools on Tuesday; George Jay, Wednesday; Monterey, Thursday, and Cloverdale, Friday.

Sometimes Community Service Comes First

PRESSURE of business and personal affairs keeps many a capable, balanced individual from standing for public office, but there are times when community service comes first. It is reaching that stage in the Greater Victoria area when issues like amalgamation, irrigation of the hinterland, sewage disposal, policing and other matters are neglected in favor of intra-municipal bickering. There is a challenge in the situation, in that a fast-growing community simply cannot be left to run down at heel. Public services must be maintained and provision made for natural expansion.

There will be great disappointment in the Greater Victoria area if in the coming municipal elections the voters are not given a wider, more progressive and practical choice of representatives than has been the case in the last decade. Municipal service, as a stepping stone to provincial and national service, should attract young, progressive elements in the community—the type of men and women who make service clubs and other organizations productive of much that is worthwhile in the community.

Victoria City as a Corporation is analogous to a business with a turnover of approximately $3,000,000 annually. All of the executive ability that is called for in private enterprise is needed in the administration of public business, plus the balance and tact that are essential in the handling of public affairs. This community has plenty of talent. Now is the time it is needed in the elected counsels of the region. Quite as deadly as public apathy at the polls is private apathy among those who would make first-class civic candidates. The challenge and the opportunity to serve were never plainer in the City's history. The response should measure up to that.

Mr. Coldwell Verifies E.R.P. Situation

THOSE of the leftist persuasion of thought with a penchant for seeing evil in Western participation in European affairs could with advantage pay attention to what Mr. M. J. Coldwell has to say. Coming from the leader of the C.C.F., to which fellow travelers seem anxious to attach themselves in many ways, his remarks may be taken as innocent of "capitalistic" inspiration.

Mr. Coldwell has just come back from Europe. He went there predisposed to be suspicious of United States motives in connection with the European Recovery Plan, expecting to find evidence that American capitalism was moulding German society to its own pattern. He admits he was wrong. He says frankly that United States occupational authorities are doing an excellent job along democratic lines, and that E.R.P. is the only hope for the rehabilitation of Europe

Nations should not be expected to be so altruistic in their actions as to ignore completely their own interests. This is a very practical world and none can afford to operate in an abstract vacuum. It would be the utmost folly, for example, if Western aid was tossed lightly into the European arena without safeguards to ensure that it was not used against the benefactors. Yet in the assumption of international leadership to which it has fallen heir the United States has shown a commendable willingness to share its material bounties without undue thought of national gain.

That much has been evident. It stands in marked contrast to the Russian attempts to starve three-fourths of Berlin into submission. Clear thinking individuals are in no doubt about what Western Allied aid means to Europe. More muddled minds may now be inclined to recognize the truth, in the light of Mr. Coldwell's appraisal.

Isolation of Albernis Calls for Speedy Remedy

ISOLATION of the Alberni Valley by road from the rest of Vancouver Island emphasizes a serious disadvantage under which a rapidly expanding district has labored for many years. This is not the first time the Albernis' sole highway link has been cut; there were serious disruptions last Winter, and even during Summer months necessary reconstruction caused unavoidable interruptions.

The weak spot is the Cameron Lake section, and because of the recurring landslides it is doubtful that any feat of engineering could keep the road open under stress of severe storms. Overland, there exists only one other outlet—the railway line on the opposite side of the lake, equally subject to severance by natural forces. If ever road and railway went out at the same time the plight of the twin cities would be parlous indeed.

With costs of construction now running about $60,000 a mile, the capital outlay on an alternative route into the valley would be considerable; but against that should be weighed the heavy capital investment in the Albernis, their already substantial output and their industrial potential. Nor should it be necessary to build a road to main highway standards. An all-weather road that would serve as a year-round alternative route and as an emergency outlet would meet present needs and be capable of improvement as future expansion dictates.

This week's occurrences should spur the Government to action before it completes the highway program to go before the Legislature at the coming session.

AIRPARK DISCUSSION

Sir,—Through the courtesy of the president and members of the Ward Four Ratepayers' Association I was permitted to outline some of the reasons for opposition to the airpark at their meeting on Monday evening. I did this because I understood that Councillor Passmore's motion, carried at the last council meeting, called for a plebiscite for the whole of Saanich on the airpark question. I was very surprised, therefore, to hear Councillor Passmore inform the Ward Four ratepayers that what he had proposed was a referendum limited to the residents in the vicinity of the Gordon Head site, at the same time inviting his audience to guess who had voted against him.

According to press reports and to my own recollection of the last council meeting, Councillor Passmore, with the support of Councillors Kersey, Rudd and Alexander, definitely moved that the plebiscite cover the whole municipality. This was opposed by Reeve Warren with Councillors Cummins and Genn, on the grounds that the Town Planning Act restricted the permissible reference to those whose property would be affected by re-zoning.

The official wording of the motion will be known when the minutes of the last council meeting come up for adoption. Ward Four will then be in a position to judge whether the councillor's latest version of his motion is the correct one.

REX HARDIE.
Queenswood Drive, Victoria, British Columbia.

FUR FARMING

Sir,—Will some financial expert inform me why Canada ties her economy to that of the United States? We are an exporting nation and our exportable products very similar to those of that country. Can anyone say that our potential markets in Asia, Australasia, Europe and Africa are not more important than those of the Americas. Exactly fifty years ago I saw a pair of black fox pups dug out of a den in Newfoundland sold to one of the first Nova Scotia fur farms for $20,000; last month I sold better skins for $7.00 each. During most of that time the United States had, and still has, an import duty of 37½ to 50% against our foxes; while all other countries admit them duty free. Six months ago my agent in Italy asked for 1,000 silver fox skins of the standard type at $20 each, offering to pay for them with lemons. As Canada is a large importer of lemons, I figured it would be an easy barter deal as our fur farmers have been going bankrupt by the thousands. Our Government, while paying United States dollars for the lemons, demanded the same currency for the foxes and the deal fell through; as a result, the average price for silver foxes at Montreal last month dropped to an all time low (less than $10.00 net) and our Italian customers bought several thousands of inferior skins in Oslo, Norway (on a barter deal) for over $26. Now the most powerful lobby of all time is bombarding Washington to put an import duty on all "foreign" fur. Last year Russia dumped over 60,000,000 dollars in raw furs on the United States market and the new tariff is aimed at them, but unlike the greatest Premier Canada ever had, the American Government is not likely to mention Russia exclusively and Canada will suffer. This means that within the next year or two our mink ranches, now making a profit will follow the fox ranchers into bankruptcy. There are many people who will call me cock-eyed, but that is mild to what they said twenty odd years ago about my views on the free export of breeding animals to other countries. Canada is fast losing, in fact has already dropped to third or fourth place in the export fur trade of the world, and is definitely on the way out. This sort of thing is making Socialists out of thousands of erstwhile Liberals and Conservatives, and if anyone says that only the fur farmers and dealers are going bankrupt, page the Okanagan apple growers. If we ever needed another Bennett it is in this year of 1948.

The Moth

Isled in the midnight air,
Musked with the dark's faint bloom.
Out into glooming and secret haunts
The flame cries, "Come!"

Lovely in dye and fan,
A-tremble in shimmering grace,
A moth from her winter swoon
Uplifts her face:

Stares from her glamorous eyes,
Wafts her on plumes like mist;
In ecstasy swirls and sways
To her strange tryst.

Thinking Aloud

". . . of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

LET me, for a change, think aloud this morning via the informative News Letter put out by Army headquarters.

The beaver—not the dog—it says, is man's best friend. Here's why.

Not long ago Army engineers at Fort Churchill set out to build a dam, thus to raise the water level of a lake to make it safe for seaplane landings. The beavers beat them to it.

The soldiers arrived to find the dam nearly completed and the water level up higher than reported. Now the beavers are proteges of the army camp, unofficially enlisted as a special detachment, and secure from the wiles of the itinerant trappers.

ARMY reunions have taken on a new tone—the ladies have stepped into the picture. Two hundred former members of the C.W.A.C. had a party in Ottawa recently and laid plans for an annual get-together next Summer.

The party isn't described, but I assume it was perhaps a trifle more decorous than the stag affairs to which we have been accustomed now for a long time. So be it, however, these girls deserve the chance to make whoopee; they did a grand job during the war.

* * * * *

REGIMENTAL marches, I learn, are still the Old Country tunes of tradition, although if I remember correctly an Edmonton unit some months ago displaced "A Hundred Pipers" by "Lily Marlene." Even a regiment slips a cog sometimes. The Canadian Scottish has the stirring "Blue Bonnets" for ceremonial occasions, and such other airs as "Bonnie Dundee," "My Boy Willie" and the "British Grenadiers" are high up on the list when regiments are on parade.

A few units such as the Royal Canadian Regiment and the Royal Regiment of Canada have their own original marches. The Irish Regiment of Canada, on the other hand, plays "Gary Owen," the 4th Princess Louise Dragoon Guards marches to the strains of "Men of Harlech," while the "Pibroch o' Donald Dhu" is the favorite of the Cameron Highlanders of Ottawa, the Pictou Highlanders and the Queen's Own Cameron Highlanders of Canada. The familiar "Colonel Bogey" sounds when the Calgary Regiment and the Irish Fusiliers of Vancouver put their best feet forward.

It was a wit, seemingly, who picked a tune for the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps. Away back in the days when long columns of horse-drawn vehicles were supplying the foot soldier, he chose "Wait for the Wagon" as the regimental march past of the Corps.

* * * * *

THERE will be no excuse for P.P.C.L.I. recruits not knowing their way around. That unit—what a pity the Pats left Victoria—has compiled a pocket-sized guide giving the history and traditions of the regiment, listing its battle honors and containing appropriate illustrations and an account of interesting Army customs. Titled the "Recruits Book," it is designed to foster the esprit-de-corps that makes every real regiment tick.

Shortly after the outbreak of the World War the Canadian Scottish issued a somewhat similar pocket book, with the object of stimulating the pride of its new, wartime members. It did just that.

* * * * *

ONE of the oldest regiments of the Canadian Army is Le Regiment de la Chaudiere, the only French-speaking infantry unit in the 3rd Canadian Infantry Division—the formation, lest you've forgotten, that landed on the beaches of Normandy on D-Day. The "Chauds" can trace the origin of their regiment back to the French regime in Canada when, prior to 1759, it was known as Le Seigneur Thomas-Pierre-Joseph Taschereau's private militia.

Four years ago come Sunday the "Chauds" were sitting inside Germany in slit trenches, the first Canadian regiment, they claim, to operate as an entire unit inside Hitler's Reich.

* * * * *

EDUCATION gets results. During the war acute respiratory disease was the greatest single cause of manpower wastage in armies of the temperate zone. It cost five training days per man per year. With a Home War Establishment of some 200,000 men, that meant the Canadian Army could have lost over a million training days each year if preventive measures had not been taken.

A campaign launched in 1943 forewarned troops of the steps to be taken to combat sickness of this nature. Film strips were produced and shown thousands of times in Canada and overseas. The sick parades lessened substantially. As Churchill said once of his wartime cabinet, the Canadian Army in war was not conducted entirely by simpletons and dunderheads.

Give Us the Aircraft, Mr. Claxton

By FLT.-LT. W. J. KENTON
Former R.A.F. Fighter, Bomber and Transport Pilot in England, India and Canada

THREE years have passed since a group of local veteran R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. aircrew and groundcrew began their efforts to form an Auxiliary Air Force Squadron for Victoria, stationed at Patricia Bay. This worthy endeavor has come to naught, as Mr. Claxton, Minister of Defence, has failed to give his approval, despite endorsement of the proposal by all of our municipal councils, every service club in the city, the veterans' organizations, and various prominent local citizens; and in face of the deteriorating world situation of the past three years.

Some of the excuses for refusal have been that in 1946 the Department of Defence could not approve of the squadron as it was not immediately covered by the estimates, but the squadron was to be formed "in the near future." The R.C.A.F. allowed that the formation of a squadron was "contemplated," but when, they could not say.

In 1947, when Russia began pushing the United Nations around, the Department of Defence apparently forgot the expense involved but could not give the go-ahead as it considered permanent force men could not be spared to aid the formation, nor could sufficient auxiliaries be found to warrant a squadron! The local committee asked that they be permitted to publicise the project and sign up men. This proposal was blocked with the statement from a higher ranking air force officer that the minister wished to personally announce the formation, in the House.

And so we drag on to 1948 with proposals and counter-proposals and the greatest blow of all—the R.C.A.F. handed Patricia Bay over to the Department of Transport. Why the R.C.A.F. should vacate the finest all-weather combined airplane and seaplane base in Canada and hand it over for the almost exclusive use of one airline remains a mystery in flying circles.

With the establishment of the Combined Services College in Victoria and the harboring of half of Canada's navy in Esquimalt, it would seem that the establishment of a large R.C.A.F. training base at Patricia Bay would be an asset to the nation's scheme of defence.

It should be noted here that the navy, the college and the 180,000 inhabitants of Vancouver Island have no protection from attack from the air as there is not one serviceable military aircraft on Vancouver Island.

When comparing the position of Victoria with other Canadian cities, one must bear in mind that Vancouver, London, Winnipeg, Toronto, Hamilton, Saskatoon, Calgary and Edmonton each have a squadron, while Montreal has two. Canada is often described as stretching from "Halifax to Vancouver." Again this is apparently the case and Vancouver Island and its people do not exist on the maps of officialdom in Ottawa.

For their enlightenment we must report that we have five airfields with concrete runways, hangars, quarters, etc., on the Island, and we have at least 150 qualified pilots, and 200 ground crew willing to man a squadron for Victoria.

The West also has some important targets well worth blasting from the air, including the John Hart Dam, Kamloops, with its rail and road communications centre; Trail, with one of the largest smelters in the world, and Esquimalt, with half the R.C.N.

A short while ago Mr. Claxton stated that an enemy airborne force could be quickly decimated. The truth is that Canada cannot muster even one hundred jet fighters and certainly the whole force of the R.C.A.F. could not set back even an equal number of Russian bombers. Remember these enemy bombers do not necessarily have to return to their bases. A rendezvous with a carrier or destroyer force only 300 miles off our shores would suffice to save the aircrews for further operations.

If we do not prepare now and keep our skills alive and ready to defend our country, our city and our families, then we deserve whatever may come. Give us three fighting airplanes, Mr. Claxton, and Victoria will give Canada 300 fighting airmen and the finest auxiliary squadron in Canada.

Who Is This "LittleMan"?

(Editorial in The Pittsburgh Post-Gazette)

IT has been said that most of the conflicts in modern society reflect no more than a dreadful ignorance of logic, the principles of orderly reasoning. That may or may not be true, but certainly a wider study of this venerable art would save us all a lot of energy spent in raising our blood pressure over nothing.

Curiously, we moderns sneer at the mediæval scholars who argued interminably the issue of how many angels could stand on the point of a pin, yet we get ourselves into a lather over who is or who isn't a "liberal." The fact that no one can define this term seems to make no difference.

Again, take those catch words "the common man" or "the little man." Who is he? A cowardly chest, as essayist Philip Wylie describes him? A saint on earth whose century, according to Henry Wallace, this is? Nobody knows. But everybody talks about him.

Recently, for example, an official of the American Friends Service Committee told an audience in New York that "the little man" needs championing both in the United States and Russia. The last ten years, he said, have witnessed a tendency to forget the little man, to dominate him, to relegate him to the position of a number instead of a name. "We have forgotten," he added, the "simple significance of the human being whose primary interests are his wife, his children, his job, his home, his reasonable security. . . ."

Who are "we" and "whom" have we forgotten? Those "primary interests" sound pretty inclusive—so inclusive indeed, as to make the term "little man" meaningless.

Now logic would say that until some one clearly defines "the little man" it is foolish to argue about his troubles or what can be done about them. And as of today the only definition we know is a negative one: "The little man" is the fellow every one loves but no one wants to be.

I've never seen the Amazon
Nor Incas from Peru,
But I can see some funny things
That Incas never do.

I sometimes meet three wistful cows
All gazing at the sky,
While high above their mournful heads
Some clouds go drifting by;
And, when I look up close, I find
A man behind the tie.

And roaming through the city streets
I've seen a table mat,
It's set for lunch, including
An ornamental cat.
And, when I get up close, I find
It is a lady's hat.

"Eisenhower Was My Boss"

Horseback Rides Help Relax General; Atabrine Lays All Allied Force Low

By KAY SUMMERSBY

The author was chauffeur, then secretary and aide to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower while he was overseas. She tells her experiences in "Eisenhower Was My Boss" which is to be published in book form. Yesterday's installment saw the Allies facing heavy going in North Africa, and Miss Summersby herself a victim of jaundice.

Moving around again after my release, I found things had changed for the better at the front. And General Eisenhower had finally surrendered to Butch's perpetual suggestion, prompted by General Marshall's direct orders, that the Supreme Commander take better care of himself. He acquired the use of a villa-farm about 15 miles outside of Algiers, a secluded and rather run-down place which overlooked the sea and provided access to wooded land.

It was ideal for the horseback exercise General Marshall advised. General Arthur Wilson supplied the horseflesh. There were three of them, all Arab stallions, the first stallions I had ever ridden, chestnut in color and with the peculiarly short ears and flowing mane and tail of Arab breeds.

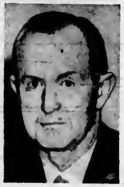

The General and I went riding frequently. It was a treat for me because I had loved and known horses since childhood and enjoyed the jaunts with my Boss. He, for his part, learned to accept riding as a complete relaxation and, I suspect, welcomed the change from the ever-present military. Whenever we ran into troops in training, however, I kicked my horse and galloped away.

RESEMBLED ARAB

Although the General was dressed in smart riding uniform, from mirror-bright old cavalry boots to an overseas hat sporting four stars, I had only an old shirt, and a pair of johdpurs sent from the United States. I looked the part of an Arab girl and it ill-behooved me to stick around and embarrass the General whenever he passed troops.

Duty permitting, we went out riding three or four times a week. Butch came along one day but retreated to Algiers half an hour later, muttering that he was a seafaring man. Peg Chase, an old friend from the Red Cross, was an occasional companion, as was Tex Lee.

When the atabrine treatment hit North Africa, the Germans could have walked through our lines without even a fist fight or an unkind word. From the Supreme Commander down to the greenest buck private and civilian, everyone took the first dose under direct orders. Line troops and headquarters staffs alike were laid so low with nausea that the dose was cut at once to half a pill every third day. I was among the victims, but only that once; thereafter, I took advantage of my unique civilian standing and secretly stuck to my bottle of quinine. I never had the slightest touch of malaria.

The author was two hours late for a dinner date with Admiral Sir Andrew Browne Cunningham. She "couldn't have chosen a worse time to be late."

SOCIAL COMPROMISE

My same unique civilian status, however, led to trouble with the Royal Navy. It all began one night when Lieutenant Dampier, flag lieutenant to Admiral Cunningham, telephoned. "Kay," he said, "I understand you play a good game of ping-pong. The Admiral would like you to come to dinner tomorrow night."

It was a strange invitation. I must be the only girl ever invited to dinner with an admiral because I play ping-pong. Naturally, I accepted. But the evening was complicated by an earlier invitation, which I had accepted, to attend the first party in the wardroom of the Maidstone, mother-ship of subs. That had come from Barney Fawkes, the charming British Navy captain who permitted us girls to bathe—secretly—aboard the Maidstone whenever our water supply at the villa failed. Barney also kept our spirits up on low evenings by having us down for luxurious navy dinners. So I couldn't run out on that invitation.

In satiating compromise, I hurried down to the ship that next night to join the other civilian girls, W.A.C.'s, nurses and British W.R.N.S.'s in a quick drink before the Admiral's dinner at 8 o'clock.

But an air raid sabotaged that plan. Sitting there in lovely navy comfort, with amiable companions and a cool drink, I couldn't bring myself to brave bombs and shrapnel in order to be on time for Admiral Cunningham's dinner. Besides, I thought, I have the car at the dockside and can make the trip in no time at all. I relaxed and stopped watching the clock.

The instant the raid ended, I hurried ashore—only to find a new catastrophe. The General's car resembled a refugee from a junkyard. Its glass windows were smashed, jagged and gaping, shrapnel had dented the fenders and hood, the inside was littered with piles of debris, dust, salt water stains, even seaweed and seashells.

A passing M.P. rushed me up to Admiral Cunningham's villa. I was more than two hours late, undoubtedly the first person who had so openly insulted him, socially, in his entire navy career. Yet he listened to my tales of woe with interest and even sedate mirth. He didn't say much.

The next day I arranged to have the car repaired in a hurry, no one the wiser. But Barney Fawkes called to break the sad news re A.B.C., as they always referred to Admiral Sir Andrew Browne Cunningham. "You couldn't have chosen a worse time to be late for his dinner party, Kay," Barney chided.

"What's happened?" I asked.

BUTT OF JOKES

"Well, even though some of the chaps and several of the "Wrens" were late on watch because of the air raid, we might have got away with the party." He paused. "But I guess your late arrival at the Admiral's place was the topper."

"We've had it, Kay. Old A.B.C. has just put out an order: no more women aboard the Maidstone!"

For weeks, I was the butt of not-so-good-humored wisecracks from W.A.C.'s, W.R.N.'s, nurses, and the submarine boys. And I don't think I've been late to a dinner party since.

All this doesn't mean daily life in those early months of 1943 was a gay social whirl. Most of my days were taken up with driving. Sometimes it was a visiting general or V.I.P. More often it was General Eisenhower; too often, a trip to Constantine.

I came to hate that Red Ball convoy route with a deep, wild passion—the mud and the dust and the trucks and the growing heat and the constant fear of air attack. ("If we're ever attacked," I told the Boss one day, "don't wait for me to open the door for you. It's every man for himself, then!"

Then amidst all the routine things began to pick up. The Germans were forced off Hill 609. Mateur was captured. On a trip forward I saw batches of Italian prisoners of war, happy and even jubilant that their war was over.

On May 20 we motored over to nearby Tunis for the magnificent victory parade staged over General Eisenhower's objection, at French insistence. By a stroke of fate, I stood on the platform with General Montgomery, the man who didn't like women anywhere in his vast battle area, let alone in his immediate vicinity. We all baked in the merciless heat, sizzling to the point of collapse, hour after hour after hour.

Despite the white-hot heat, I was happy. The campaign was over. We had won. And Dick was safe—I thought.

'False Economy' Of Embargo Under Attack

WINNIPEG, Nov. 18 (CP).—The "false economy" of the Federal Government's limitation of imports of glycol anti-freeze from the United States into Canada, was attacked today by Frank Innes, secretary manager of Winnipeg's Automotive Trade Association.

Mr Innes said American dollars would not be saved by restricting the importation of good anti-freeze. The use of poor substitutes would destroy vehicular and industrial machinery. Parts for repairs had to come in from the U.S., at a much greater cost in many cases.

He disagreed with the Government's view that ethylene glycol was a "luxury" and asked how this could be so when 80 per cent of all Winter driving in Canada was for commercial purposes.

BOWES, Yorkshire, England (CP).—The original of Dickens' Dotheboys Hall—a villa here—was sold for £5,700 ($22,800) to R. Wearmouth, a Bowes garage proprietor. William Shaw, on whom Squeers in "Nicholas Nickleby" was based, bought the property in 1813 and is buried in Bowes churchyard.

Nobel Group Cancels Prize

OSLO, Norway, Nov. 18 (AP).—The Norwegian prize committee announced today that no Nobel Peace Prize will be awarded this year.

Two-thirds of the amount awarded for the prize from the will of Alfred B. Nobel, Swedish explosives magnate, will go into the Nobel Institute's "special fund," the committee said. The prize last year amounted to nearly $41,000.

The Peace Award last year went to the British and United States oragnizations of the Society of Friends (Quakers).

Nobel prizes have been awarded this year in medicine, literature, chemistry and physics.

Power Curbs Upsetting Torontonians

TORONTO, Nov. 18 (CP).—If your office is on the 18th floor, you make a point of getting to work on time in Toronto these days.

And if you start dinner after 7 p.m. you eat by candlelight. Romantic wives seem to favor this, despite the fact it's hard to tell whether your knife is cutting the potatoes or the Brussels sprouts.

Power cut-offs, in the morning, afternoon and evening, due to a province-wide shortage, are forcing Torontonians and a good many others in Ontario to assume a new way of life—the Ontario way of life.

The cut-offs here come at 8 a.m. for an hour, at 4 p.m. for an hour and at 7 p.m. for 45 minutes.

If a man is slow crawling out of bed in the morning he may get his bacon and eggs, but he may have to take the stairs to his office. On the hour-stroke the elevators stop running.

The cut-off from 4 to 5 p.m. seems to be the one most irritating to housewives. It's too early to give the baby his bottle before 4 and too late after 5.

The street-car pileup at 4 p.m. is terrific. Every street corner looks like the Rose Bowl.

Workers in the scores of industrial plants used to quit work at staggered hours, between 4 and 5.30. Now everybody goes to work earlier and knocks off at 4. The rush for trams might be compared to Niagara.

From the air between 7 and 7:45 p.m., Toronto looks like a blacked-out area patterned with the regularly-spaced white ribbons of street lights which remain on.

You can't buy a candle for love nor money. Persons with relatives in the country are asking them to send along spare lamps.

British Move Urges Adoption Of Bernadotte Peace Proposal

PARIS, Nov. 18 (CP)—British submitted to the General Assembly's political committee today a draft resolution calling for solution of the Palestine problem on the basis of the plan of the late mediator, Count Folke Bernadotte.

A British spokesman said the United States delegation was consulted during the drafting of the resolution. He said the British delegation is hopeful the proposal will receive American support.

An American source said the United States delegation will make a preliminary statement on Palestine before the 58-nation committee tomorrow. He did not indicate what stand the United States would take.

POSITION NOT STATED

When the Assembly opened here in September, Dista Secretary Marshall urged adoption of Bernadotte's report as "a generally fair basis for settlement of the Palestine question." However, the United States delegation has not yet stated its position in detail.

Under the British resolution Bernadotte's plan would be put into force through a three-power commission.

While Britain thus endorsed the Bernadotte plan, L. B. Pearson, leader of the Canadian delegation, expressed hope that the current Assembly meeting may provide a final solution to the Palestine problem. Pearson spoke in a radio address outside the halls of the Palais de Chaillot.

"We were not too optimistic about this," he said. "We all know after the events of last year how difficult the problem is.

ANY SOLUTION SOUGHT

"However, the very fact that there have been such terrible happenings in Palestine during the last year has given us hope that any solution this year which the United Nations Assembly may be able to produce may result in real peace."

Bernadotte drafted his plan shortly before he was assassinated in Jerusalem last September. It would reverse the original United Nations partition decision of last November 29 by giving Western Galilee to Israel and assigning the Negev Desert in Southern Palestine to the Arabs.

Israel opposes giving up the Negev which it hopes by modern farming methods and irrigation to make habitable for thousands of Jewish immigrants.

The Jews estimate they will lose almost three-fifths of Israel if the Negev is traded for Western Galilee. The original partition plan gave the Jewish state an area of 8,578 square miles. Bernadotte's plan would reduce it to 2,134 square miles.

B.C. Shipping Aid to Alaska

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C., Nov. 18 (CP)—Canadian competition in freight shipments to Alaska would be one likely result of Alaska's rise to statehood, Governor Ernest Gruening predicted here today.

Increased use of Canadian shipping and the strategically-situated port of Prince Rupert would help relieve the northern territory's "recurrent marine transportation dilemma," he said.

...Oddities...

PETERSFIELD, Hants., England, Nov. 18 (CP)—The age of speed has a dissenter in former army officer Raymond Francis Baird.

Brought into court for pulling an emergency stop cord on a train traveling 60 miles an hour, he paid £10 (s.-$42) in fines and court costs and declared:

"I have written to the railway saying I will pull all trains up when they are going too fast."

He's a regular passenger.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Nov. 18 (CP)—Best selling sidelines in shady shops along the Eire-Ulster border as the Christmas smuggling season nears:

1. Knockout drops that put customs to sleep until they're safely over the line.

2. Poultry food that does ditto to ducks.

3 Special measles to quiet contraband cows.

VANCOUVER, Nov. 18 (CP)—Detectives George Ritson and John Dyer were more than a little surprised when they were forced to stop their police car to avoid striking a man who was standing on one foot in the middle of the street.

Their surprise turned to indignation when he calmly hopped over and sat on the fender of the police car while he shook stones out of his shoe, put it on and laced it.

The detectives' ire turned to laughter as the man waved a casual greeting and went on his way.

Repairs in White House Mean Move for Trumans

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18 (CP)—Latest word on the White House—from a man who should know—is that the second floor is staying up "purely from habit."

Buildings Commissioner W. E. Reynolds says the building itself, home of President Truman, wouldn't pass the fire-code requirements of "any responsible city in America."

People have been saying for years that something would have to be done about the structural weakness of that second story. The job now is under way.

MOVING DAY

Historic White House furnishings are going into storage this Winter; the Lincoln bed, an especially-built concert grand piano, crystal chandeliers, French period furniture dating back 100 years, and other treasures. Packing and moving will be by Government employees.

The whole load. The walls were weakened when gas pipes, plumbing and electricity circuits were installed; some now is "safely solid," experts say. The cornerstone of the structure was laid in 1792.

An estimated 1,000,000 persons visit the White House each year and the sightseers have contributed to the stress and strain, Reynolds says.

Nanaimo Jury Probes Death

NANAIMO, Nov. 18—A verdict of accidental death was returned by a coroner's jury under W. H. Jones after investigating the case of Henry McCabe, 34, a Bastings brakeman who died in Nanaimo General Hospital last Tuesday from injuries received when he fell under a Comox Logging & Railway Co. locomotive at Nanaimo Lakes.

Members of the jury were unable to determine whether McCabe fell from a railway car or the locomotive cow-catcher. He was conscious when extricated, and said to the train was equipped with all one of his rescuers "I must have necessary safety devices. slipped." He was employed as a second brakeman, and had passed his examination with a percentage of 94.

All Canada Likes CHEVROLET'S Bodies by Fisher

DUSTPROOF • DRAFTPROOF • NOISEPROOF

More Value in Riding Comfort

Your own tests will show that Chevrolet has more riding comfort. That's because Chevrolet brings you Unitized Knee Action—perfected by Chevrolet's experience in building more than 8,000,000 Knee-Action units. This outstanding contribution to riding luxury—together with Chevrolet's Big Car Body by Fisher—is offered only by Chevrolet in the low-priced field!

Dust, noise, wind, heat, cold and engine gases all stay outside Chevrolet's super-insulated bodies. There's thick, asphalt-impregnated felt lining for roof, dash panels, side panels, floor and even in trunk compartment. There's extra insulation in doors from sponge rubber mouldings and interior windlacing . . . extra insulation at seams and joints from special Safti-seal sealing compound . . . extra insulation in the roof from dead air space and headlining.

More Value in Braking Efficiency

The knowledge that you are operating Positive Action Hydraulic Brakes in your Chevrolet—brakes especially designed to achieve greater brakelining contact—gives you a fine feeling of security when driving on crowded city streets or along mountain passes. This sureness of brake operation with Positive Action Hydraulic Brakes is exclusive to Chevrolet.

More Value in Performance with Economy

You'll enjoy lively, dependable performance—at horse operating costs—with the extra-rugged Chevrolet valve-in-head "World's Champion" engines have delivered more miles, for more owners over a longer period, than any other automobile power plant built today! And only Chevrolet in its field gives you the advantages of valve-in-head design.

More Value in All-round Safety

You ride in maximum safety in your new Chevrolet. Safeguarding you every mile is the triple protection of Fisher Unitized Body Construction, Unitized Knee-Action Obiding Ride and Positive Action Hydraulic brakes. Such super-safety engineering is a Big Car feature that is yours at lowest cost in Chevrolet—and yours only in Chevrolet among low priced cars!

It is not by chance that Chevrolet's bodies by Fisher are so beautiful, so luxurious, so safe! Behind each body is forty years of motor-car coachcraft experience . . . forty years of building master bodies for precision-minded Canadians. To matchless craftsmanship have been added the methods and the metals of modern body engineering. Essential Issues of France, Britain Threaten Aid Plan

Interpreting the News

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
A.P. Foreign Affairs Analyst

General De Gaulle, with his statement that the Marshall Plan's success comes second to the "essential interests" of France, gives voice to the very thing which, next to Communism, threatens the future of Europe.

So-called "essential" national interests are being put ahead of over-all safety and recovery. France puts her fear of a beaten and easily controllable Germany ahead of that for a strong and aggression-bent Russia. Britain tends to put hope of somehow regaining her position in world trade ahead of a secure if less powerful place in a unified Western Europe. She balks at reducing trade barriers which give her priority. The French balk at letting Germany produce things all Europe needs because to them every German factory is a cannon mold and every German industrialist a threat.

POLITICAL PLAN

Winston Churchill says the British Government's plan for steel nationalization, which may prove very expensive, takes the form of state trading "indistinguishable from that of the Russian Communist Government" and threatens Anglo-American relations. The London Telegraph and Financial Times have both labeled the Nationalization Bill as purely political, Socialism's last big card to be used before the 1950 elections.

But it is more than that. Britain's fight for recovery has the admiration and sympathy of most Americans. But any fair appraisal of the British industrial and trade policy since the war must recognize not only the motive of self-defence, but also a nationalism which is not always compatible with what America considers the general welfare.

Where France has openly opposed some of the policies which we believe lead to that end, British economic self-interest and vacillation regarding our Russian policy have caused our diplomats just about as much trouble.

These things are easy to condone, in the light of the pressures on both countries. France has been badly kicked around by Germany, and Britain must export to live. But both problems can be solved better through co-operation than through some of the ancient ways to which they adhere.

ECONOMIC JEALOUSY

There is political and economic jealousy—even some violent dislike—between England and France. It is more widely recognized in Europe than among those who glibly expect the Marshall Plan to fix everything at one stroke.

De Gaulle expressed part of it when he said that the defence of France must not be centred in England. I presume he was talking about General Montgomery heading the European Union's military staff. But he forgets that France's defence has centred in England for 30 years, both as a base for counter-attack and as a lodestone for attracting the help from America without which neither of them could have survived.

I came away from Europe last month seriously depressed because her countries are being led by men who would rather bandy this kind of stuff around for domestic political purposes than get together for general recovery.

I don't mean to be too sharp, or to cast doubt on the ultimate success of the Marshall Plan. Britain has done wonders in buckling down to the recovery job, regardless of what percentage is purely selfish. France has made progress. But America has its problems in trying to help them which might as well be faced squarely.

Asks Changes In Rhymes For Children

LONDON, Nov. 18 (CP).—Education Minister Tomlinson is being asked to save Britain's youth from the brutal propaganda of Tom, Tom, the Piper's Son, John Peel, The Hunter, Baby Bunting and other nursery-rhyme characters.

The Education Welfare Society, with headquarters in Manchester and 2,000 members, has written the minister that "traditional nursery rhymes are too cruel for innocent children to learn."

They have rewritten some rhymes to help Arthur Thompson, 31, their organizer and lecturer, former miner and father of two young children, who leads the campaign.

Here's Baby Bunting's new look.

"Bye, Baby Bunting,
"Mummy's gone a-hunting
"Hunting shops for bright sateen
"To wrap her baby bunting in."

The Piper's Son no longer steals a hog. Instead—

"Tom, Tom, the piper's son,
"Takes a neighbor's dog for a daily run,
"They look so sweet it is a treat
"To watch them running down the street."

Says Thompson:

"The traditional nursery rhymes are deadly dangerous. From them children get their first knowledge of cruelty and crime."

IPSWICH, England (CP).—To remove the "stigma" of a uniform, grey flannel trousers have been issued to the 30 boys at Hollesley Bay "open" Borstal institution, near here, replacing the standard blue shorts.

URGES EXPORT BOOST

BOSTON, Nov. 18 (CP).—Finance Minister Abbott said today Canada is faced with the alternatives of raising her exports to or cutting her imports from the United States. He told the Governors' session of the New England Council the Dominion's exchange conservation program "has been singularly successful in-so-far as we ourselves have been able to go."

Becomes Manager in City

Appointment of R. W. J. Angus, left, former district sales manager at Vancouver, to succeed T. P. Waters, right, district commercial manager at Victoria, was announced yesterday by B.C. Telephone Company. Effective on December 31 when Mr. Waters retires on pension after 36 years' service, new appointment gives Mr. Angus commercial jurisdiction over company's Vancouver Island territory.

B.C. 90 Years Old Today As Crown Colony Formed

On a dark, wet day, exactly 90 years ago, a gun salute boomed from the bastion at Fort Langley on the Fraser River and the Union Jack was hoisted over the territory west of the Rocky Mountains.

British law had replaced the rule of the fur trade and British Columbia came into being as a Crown colony.

Acting as Governor of Vancouver Island, proclaimed a Crown colony nine years earlier, Sir James Douglas read the Royal commission of Queen Victoria. It appointed him Governor of the unorganized Mainland territory, previously known as New Caledonia.

(British Columbia and Vancouver Island were united into one province in 1866 and entered Confederation five years later.)

The proclamation ceremony, however, had a significance even greater than the organization of a Crown colony. It was also a personal triumph for Sir James, fur trader, diplomat, patriot and governor of two colonies.

GOLD RUSH

The Fraser River gold rush in the Summer of 1858 brought thousands of miners from Washington, Oregon and California. Governor Douglas, fearing the newcomers would seize control of the country, collected a mining licence to exact recognition of British sovereignty

He introduced a bill into the House of Commons to provide for creation of a new colony on the North Pacific seaboard. The name, British Columbia, was selected by Queen Victoria because of the proximity of the Columbia River.

The act was enforced August 2, 1858, setting the boundaries of the new province. Vancouver Island was excluded and remained a separate colony for several years thereafter.

New Westminster, also named by Queen Victoria and known as the Royal City ever since, was capital city of the new colony from 1859 to 1868, when the seat of Government was transferred to Victoria.

The 90-year miracle of British Columbia's growth has sprung from the forest wilderness that was once New Caledonia.

Today, the dilapidated log bastion at Fort Langley, 30 miles east of Vancouver, still stands as a silent reminder of British Columbia's birth.

France Has Rebuilt Railroads Damaged by War, Official Says

During the World War the Germans completely destroyed hundreds of miles of French railway trackage, blew up 2,800 bridges and wrecked hundreds of railway stations, passenger and freight cars and locomotives.

Since the end of the war, with help from the United States and Canada, France has entirely rebuilt her railway system, making it one of the most modern in the world.

This was the story told in Victoria yesterday by Jules Hone, correspondent of the French National Railroads in Canada.

Mr Hone left his headquarters in Montreal early in November on a tour which will take him to all the major cities in Western Canada for conferences with travel officials.

"Today the French railroads are running 100 per cent," stated Mr Hone. "They call it over there a miracle, but it might be a miracle of help."

BUILT EQUIPMENT

Besides the help France received from the United States, he said, 150 locomotives were built in Canadian yards at Hamilton, Montreal and Kingston for shipment overseas. A Montreal company constructed hundreds of freight cars for the French railroads. A North Vancouver shipyard built six cargo ships for the French railroads, which are now carrying coal from France to Britain.

Mr. Hone explained the French National Railroads is a company formed during the depression when the Government took over a group of railways which had failed because of economic conditions.

During his tour of Canada, Mr Hone said he had noted a great desire among Canadians to travel in France, a desire that has been frustrated so far by currency restrictions and a dearth of passenger accommodation on ocean-going ships.

"There is a movement on foot at present to increase the $150 limit for travelers leaving the country," he advised. "We are expecting the Canadian Government to increase the limit and when the time is ripe we hope to organize parties of tourists from here to visit France and Britain through the co-operation of the French railroads."

Mr. Hone said he wanted to dispel a feeling prevalent in Canada that the cost of living was high for tourists in France.

"Cost of living is high for the Frenchman, but the stranger benefits by the currency exchange," he said. "Rates on the French railways are about half what they are on the Canadian railways. The tourist can stop at a high-class hotel in Nice, Monte Carlo or Paris for $6 or $7 a day, and the rate includes meals.

BUMPER CROPS

During the past two years, he said, bumper crops had overcome the food shortage in France.

"France is now shipping food to Britain after being helped by the United States and Canada," advised Mr Hone.

Mr Hone was appointed correspondent for the French National Railroads in 1947. He is well known in transportation circles and had served on the Canadian Pacific for 20 years. For eight years he was general agent at Quebec for railway, maritime and immigration services.

He was appointed to the board of directors of the Grand Trunk and Grand Trunk Pacific railroads, which eventually became the Canadian National Railways.

During the World War, Mr. Hone served as a director of transport for the Department of Munitions and Supply at Cherrier and Cap de la Madeleine. In Washington and New York he was cargo supervisor for the French Government's purchases of food supplies shipped to France. He has received several decorations from the French Government.

During the first six months of 1948 the British Overseas Airways Corporation carried 1,232 tons of freight.

Fire Hall Sites To Be Discussed

Reservation of properties for future fire halls will be discussed at a meeting of the town planning commission Friday night with Ald. Harold M Diggon, chairman of City Council's fire wardens committee.

Future use of the old Duchess Street fire hall will also be discussed.

ANSWER TO YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE

Correcting Spastic Constipation

By Dr. J. B. Warren

1.—Learn to live without hurry, worry, of emotional strain. 2.—Go to bed half an hour earlier than usual, get up half an hour earlier, and drink a glass of water on arising. This gives time for a few bending exercises, time to eat breakfast and time to go to stool before leaving for work. 3.—Eat enough breakfast to stretch the stomach and so start the "movement" of the whole digestive system downward. 4.—Lie on right side for ten minutes before eating the evening meal.

North's jump raise on the first round was a little thin, and his redouble of four spades was probably a case of pique, for having been robbed of the chance to "crack" four hearts. Perhaps South should have passed that bid around for his partner's consideration, but he had been misled before by that partner, and was not inclined to trust him implicitly

West opened the heart four; dummy played low, and East won with the queen. East returned a low heart. (A high heart would have given South greater trouble, but East feared that that play would permit the establishment of dummy's heart suit.)

South seized the chance to get rid of a club on the low heart return, and West ruffed with the spade five, then shifted to a low club. The ace was put up and South ruffed a club. He then ruffed a low diamond in dummy, ruffed another club, with the spade six, and cashed the diamond ace. A second diamond ruff, with the four-spot, brought the diamond king from East. When the lead of dummy's last club was covered by East with the king, declarer could actually count that East had started with six hearts, four clubs and three diamonds. So, South ruffed the fourth club with the spade king, then ruffed another diamond in dummy. A heart was then ruffed with the spade ace, and when South led his last diamond, West could not prevent dummy's spade jack, even though now blank, from winning the fulfilling trick.

How It Started

By Jean Newton

TO BE IN CLOVER

No farmer or cattleman would ask the origin of this phrase, for they know that clover is good for cattle. And not because of its "beauty in the field," as our correspondent suggests, but for its nutritive elements!

As a metaphor for luxurious living, the expression is over 200 years old in English literature and older yet in circulation by word of mouth. It was toward the end of the reign of Queen Anne, at the beginning of the elegant, opulent 18th century in England, that the metaphor first found its way into the "Apollo," one of the sophisticated publications of the day.

The simple phrase is listed as a "proverb" in Ray's collection, and it persists in literature.

In the "Mystics" of Vaughan, publication date 1856, we find this: "He has been sometimes in clover as a traveling tutor, sometimes he has fared hard."

And so on to modern literature, as in modern speech. A particularly interesting literary reference is from Dickens' "Our Mutual Friend"—interesting for the reminder of how times have changed as to how much money it takes to be "in clover"! Dickens wrote this.

"A man with coals and candles and a pound a week might be in clover here."

JOHANNESBURG (CP).—A man who is believed to operate from a dilapidated car and has trained a dog to steal, is being sought by the police in Johannesburg's northern suburbs in connection with a large number of thefts from unattended delivery cycles.

Miss Dorothy Kenward Married On Parents' 30th Anniversary

Miss Dorothy Dawn Kenward, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Kenward, chose her parents' 30th wedding anniversary for her marriage to Mr. John Donald Smith which took place at St. John's Anglican Church last evening Rev. George Biddle officiated at the double ring ceremony and Mr. Frederick Chubb played the wedding music. Mr. Frank Dunn sang "Through the Years" during the signing of the register.

The church was decorated with baskets of chrysanthemums in Autumn shades and the guest pews were marked with Colonial bouquets of chrysanthemums.

The pretty fair-haired bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white satin featuring lace and net yoke held with pearls and full-hooped skirt which was picked up at the hemline to show frills of lace. Her floor-length veil of embroidered illusion net was held by a coronet of orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of white carnations and pink roses.

Miss Margory Symonds, as maid of honor, was gowned in pale blue nylon while Misses Norah and Gwynedd Hughes, bridesmaids, wore identical gowns of peach taffeta All attendants wore headdresses to match their gowns with chapel veils and carried Colonial bouquets in harmonizing hues of carnations and chrysanthemums.

Mr. Jack Williams was best man for the groom, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Smith of Florence, Ont., while Mr. Maurice Braithwaite and Mr Chris Fawcett were the ushers.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Oak Bay Beach Hotel where the bride's table was centred with a three-tiered wedding cake which had been made by the bride's mother Mr Ivan Howell proposed the toast to the bride and Mr. Frank Dunn sang "Because."

For a motor trip through the United States, the bride traveled in a three-piece blue gabardine ensemble, with navy accessories and neckpiece of Russian squirrel. To complete her outfit she wore a corsage of gardenias and pink rosebuds

Mr. and Mrs. Smith will make their home at 2666 Shakespeare Street on their return.

Toronto Magazine Writer Wins Award by Women's Press Club

OTTAWA, Nov. 18 (CP).—Lotta Dempsey, Toronto magazine writer, today was announced winner of the Memorial Award of the Canadian Women's Press Club.

Given annually for outstanding work by a Canadian woman writer, the award carries with it $100 and a gold medal. It was given this year for the best handling of a news event or public issue of significance.

Miss Dempsey's winning article, We the People Versus the Sex Criminal," was published last January in Chatelaine Magazine.

Dealing with crimes involving young children, it was commended by the judges "as evidence of a rising intelligence in the Dominion that a woman's magazine should be able to deal with such a problem so frankly and efficiently." Miss Dempsey is originally from Calgary.

Runner-up for the Memorial Award was Eva-Lis Wuorio of Toronto, an assistant editor of Maclean's Magazine, for her article, "They Can't Get Back," a sketch of the arrival of D P's to Canada, published in Maclean's.

Honorable mention went to Miriam Green Ellis, Winnipeg, for her article, "Flood Peak Is Past," in The Family Herald and Weekly Star; Ellen Harris, Vancouver, for her C.B.C. broadcast script, "You Should Meet Alma", Jean Southworth, Ottawa, for news coverage of a dispute between the City of Oshawa, Ont., and County of Ontario, published in The Oshawa Times-Gazette.

Others were Constance Grey Swartz, Kelowna, B.C., for review of the first Canadian Ballet Festival held in Winnipeg, which appeared in The Vancouver Daily Province, Charlotte Whitton, Ottawa for article, "Better Adoption Controls Needed," in Saturday Night, Marguerite Wilson for her article in French, "De La Margarine," in La Revue Moderne

Judges of this year's contest were Mrs Evelyn Tufts of Ottawa, parliamentary press correspondent for The Halifax Herald; Miss Kennethe Haig of The Winnipeg Free Press, and Mrs. Margaret Ecker Francis, free lance writer and herself twice a winner of the award.

Next year's contest, which closes May 1, 1949, will also be given for the best handling of a news event or public issue of significance in the daily or weekly press, in popular magazine or periodical, on the radio or in advertising copy.

Entries must be in published form, with date of publication given. They must be sent to the chairman of the Memorial Award committee, Elsa Herwig, 75 Marlborough Avenue, Ottawa.

Alaska Seal Costs Less

MONTREAL, Nov 18 (CP). — Alaska seal fur coats will cost less this year if the trend of prices follows that of a special auction sale held here on Wednesday.

The Canadian Fur Auction Sales Company's hall was packed with buyers from across Canada who paid prices approximately 15 per cent lower than last June.

Some 3,500 Government-owned pelts went under the hammer for $250,000 Mutara variety skins were bid $80, while prices scaled lower on the Safari pelts. Buyers last June paid as much as $100 a pelt for Mutara.

However, bids today were slightly higher than at a sale in St Louis, Mo., last October.

University Women Members Describe Summer Travels

Mrs. L. B. S. Stevenson, geologist and author in her own name, was the first of the four ten-minute speakers telling of their Summer travels to a large meeting of their fellow members in the University Women's Club, Wednesday evening, held in the Liberal committee rooms on Government Street.

"A year ago in September my husband, my sons who were ten, three and one, started on our travels to centres of geological research. My husband was traveling as a Canadian Fellow of the Guggenheim Memorial Foundation. We visited 14 universities, one scientific institution and attended three geological meetings which were international in scope," Mrs. Stevenson said. Mrs. Stevenson especially spoke of women of scientific distinction; she met Professor Sylvia Thrupp of University of British Columbia, who held an appointment with the Guggenheim Foundation just a few years ago, and Dr. Alice Wilson, who was the first and for many years the only woman officer of the Canadian Geological Survey. Both of them were former holders of Canadian Federation of University Women fellowships.

Mrs. H. J. Tullis gave an account of her cross-Canada journey on a "boat train" last May when, on account of a landslide, the train was rerouted through the Kettle Valley of British Columbia She spoke of personal interviews with members of the Joint Parliamentary Committee at Ottawa who were then drafting the new "Indian Act" which promises a new deal for the Canadian Indians. Mrs. Tullis told of the startling changes she observed in Washington, D.C., resulting from the complete reversal of policy in the United States only 14 years ago with respect to the treatment of Indians.

Mrs. K. G. Wright gave the highlights of her motor trip to Pasadena and the Mexican border this Summer with her husband and three children, and visits to the three observatories at Mount Palomar, Mount Wilson and the Chick Observatory at Mount Hamilton.

Dr Marian Sherman, the last speaker, who attended the International Congress on Mental Health in London, and the International Youth Conference as representative of the National Welfare Council, summed up her report with the following statement: "Joyful living at all ages is the right of everyone, and our education should help provide this mental health."

Mrs. A Butterfield, convener of International Affairs Study Group, was named delegate with Miss Ellen Hart as alternate, to the coming week-end conference of the Institute of Pacific Relations and Canadian Institute of International Affairs at the Empress Hotel.

A unanimous resolution was passed to support Miss Isla Tuck as candidate for re-election as trustee to the Greater Victoria School Board.

The club welcomed Mrs. M. Pritchard of Manchester University, England, and seven new members.

To Celebrate Golden Wedding

Mr and Mrs. W. A. Dumsday of Sussex Cottage, 1557 Pear Street, will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary today. They will be entertained at dinner at the Empress Hotel, and at the theatre later this evening.

They were married in Ackfield Parish Church, Sussex, England, in 1898 and came to Canada in 1912. Mr Dumsday was an employee of the C.P.R in the Freight Department at Moose Jaw until his retirement nine years ago when he and his family came to Victoria.

Mr. Dumsday is a life member of the Masonic Lodge in Moose Jaw and is a member of St. Luke's Church choir here, while Mrs. Dumsday is a member of the Eastern Star.

Mr. and Mrs. Dumsday have one son, Mr. W. H. Dumsday, who is with The Canadian Press in Toronto, and one daughter, Mrs. T. C. Griffiths of Victoria, and four grandchildren

R. Crawford reported that 956 was TO WORK IN WIFE'S HAT

QUESNELTON, Cape Province, South Africa, Nov. 18. (CP).—The manager of a local store was asked to be the model for a hat his wife planned to wear to a wedding.

The husband reluctantly agreed, but soon changed his mind, and fled from the home when his wife turned her back.

A few moments later he greeted his staff, nonchalantly—and unknowingly—wearing the new creation on his head. The staff sympathetically suggested that the boss take a long holiday.

London Showgirls To Discuss Wages

LONDON, Nov. 18 (CP).—Mass meetings of London chorus girls and film extras are lineup to be called before the end of the year to discuss wages, contracts and other problems connected with their work.

Britain Actors Equity Association, which has more than 6,000 members and is affiliated to the Trades Union Congress, is being "held up and frustrated on many issues on which a decision is urgent," says Gordon Bandleon, general secretary.

"Active support may be needed before the end of the year," he told members.

A meeting of film workers who are also members of Equity may be held in November. Equity is calling for representation on boards of cells of the film industry, and it is in this field particularly that Sandison finds grounds for complaint.

COMPLAIN ABOUT CONTRACTS

Revision of contracts is another field in which Equity complains of "unnecessary delays." Wad Rind chorus contracts provide for a minimum of £5 (£20) a week but in practice this becomes £7 as girls will not accept less.

In the provinces, hundreds of Equity members are getting the minimum of £4 a week.

A new conflict for repertory plays, now in preparation, provides for a minimum of £4.10s. a week, but it is stipulated that no actor whose salary is £8 a week or less can be asked to provide more than two lounge suits and one evening suit.

Under the same contract actresses earning £8 a week or less must not be asked to provide more than two ordinary day dresses and one evening gown.

PLAN SILVER TEA

Langford P.-T.A. will hold its annual silver tea and sale of home made candy and cakes in Langford Community Hall on Wednesday from 2.30 to 4.30 p.m. Donations for the stalls will be appreciated.

Proceeds of the affair will be used to aid the Guide company and Brownie pack.

Dolls' Bazaar Realizes $175 At St. Saviour's Altar Guild

Approximately $175 was realized Mrs. D. C. Hobbs, Mrs. N. Forde at the dolls' bazaar held by St. and Miss E. Marshall. Mrs. J. M. Saviour's Altar Guild, Victoria West, Wednesday afternoon.

Bishop Harold E. Sexton, in declaring the bazaar open, commended guild members on their work, mentioning in particular improvements made in the church and sanctuary. He was introduced by Rev. Douglas Kendell. The guests were welcomed by Miss K. Goodall and Mr. Kendell.

Afternoon tea was served at individual tables in the church hall under the convenorship of Mrs. Ray Hadfield, who was assisted by Mrs. J. Bottemley. Mrs. S. Ford, in native costume. The Japanese display was complete with sampan, lily pond and a perfectly costumed Japanese maiden.

Fletcher green tapers flanked the silver bowl of chrysanthemums which centred the main tea table presided over by Bishop Sexton, Rev. and Mrs. Kendell and Miss Goodall at which the satisfactory progress was being made.

Dolls of every size and color were displayed and sold at the bazaar. Two attractive displays, miniature Swiss and Japanese village scenes, were placed at the entrance to the hall under the convenorship of Mrs. a miniature mountain chalet and ripened grapes, and an eight and cottage peopled with dolls dressed quite ready to undergo an ex- plum and cherry trees have perienes which to them seeme to be in native costume. Two Yale Doctors Report Study of Natural Birth

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 18 (AP).—Most women could have their babies with little or no anesthetic and still not have unbearable pain, a study here finds.

The secret lies in a training program in which banishing fear is a major point. Fear causes tension, and tension is the chief cause of pain in normal labor.

The report is made by Dr. Frederick W. Goodrich and Dr. Herbert Thoms of Yale University medical school in The American Journal of Obstetrics and Gynecology.

Their work is a clinical study of the ideas and methods of natural childbirth, recommended mainly by a British physician, Dr. Grantly Dick Read. The Yale study started in January, 1946, and reports on 156 deliveries.

Eighty more than half of these 156 women did not need any anesthetic help, they said. Another 28 per cent needed or needed only a single dose of some drug during childbirth. Others needed more an.i about 17 per cent needed the usual amount of anesthesia.

When asked if they wanted their next babies delivered the same way, nearly 85 per cent of the women said "yes," with no qualifications the doctors said. This included ten women who had taken the usual amount of drugs. Only nine patients said "no," and all were women who had taken the usual amount of anesthesia.

At the start, the women had the usual ideas about childbirth. Most women, the obstetricians said, are afraid of labor. They have erroneous ideas about childbirth, are often believe "that all labors are painful and terrifying ordeal."

CAUSES TENSION

This fear, they explained, causes tension and pain.

All the pain, except at the very latest stages of the expansion, largely can be avoided by education to eliminate fear, The report declares.

In most women, such fear can be reduced so that pain and discomfort can be eliminated to a degree that a woman is willing and able to accept.

When they came to the clinic, the women are given the usual care, but they also attend lectures on childbirth. They are told all the facts of childbirth, which is described as a completely natural process. The word "pain" is not used. Nurses and other attendants in the obstetrics clinic ward also are educated in these same "positive" attitudes.

The women are also taught exercises in breathing and position to help in relaxation, and to improve muscles that will be involved.

They are never told that labor will be painless, or that they won't receive an anesthetic. Anesthesia is always given to those who want it, or those whom the doctor decides need it. If the educational methods succeed the women come to the hospital appearing "calm, confident and quite ready to undergo an ex-

Waves Lash Ogden Point Breakwater

—Colonist Photo.

Ogden Point docks were reasonably sheltered from yesterday afternoon's strong southeast winds which caused high waves to pound over breakwater, shown in above photo. It is different story, however, when strong winds are from southwest. On such occasions, sea batters over docks—one of main reasons why local harbor improvement committee are asking that dock levels be raised considerably. Litter on beach from succession of storms can be seen.

Fraser Valley Power Potential Said Horsepower of 6,000,000

The Fraser Valley watershed, covering one quarter of the area of the province, is capable of producing 6,000,000 horsepower of electrical energy under full development.

This statement was made yesterday following a meeting of the Dominion - Provincial Fraser River Basin Board, a body set up to advise the two Governments on development and control of the water resources of the river. This involves not only the engineering studies of flood control and power development, but the effect of such developments on fishing, wild life and forests.

FLOOD CONTROL

The board has been directing its attention particularly to the possibility of flood control at the sources of the river and reported that a great deal of information is now available.

Board members said this led them to be optimistic that moderate expenditures on low dams would ameliorate the effect of floods if not entirely prevent them.

"There are some of the finest hunting and sport fishing areas in the world in this basin," the board's announcement said, "and the multi-million-dollar salmon fishing industry is dependent upon the spawning beds of the upper reaches. The proposals of the Aluminum Company of Canada to establish a great industry in British Columbia are dependent upon Fraser River water."

BOARD MEMBERS

Members of the board are F. G. Goodspeed, chairman, Federal Department of Public Works, K. W Morton, Federal Government district engineer at New Westminster; E. C. Webb, district chief engineer for the Dominion Water and Power Bureau, Vancouver, and W. J Whitemore, chief supervisor of fisheries.

Provincial representatives are A. L. Carruthers, deputy minister of public works and vice-chairman of the board, G. P. Melrose, deputy minister of lands, G. J. Alexander, deputy minister of fisheries, R. C Farrow, controller of water rights, and Bruce Dixon, provincial diking commissioner.

Election Races Indicated For Saanich

The forthcoming December elections will see a contest in Saanich Ward Two between the present councillor, George Rudd, and a young newcomer, John G. Ryan, aged 30, 914 Stafford Street.

Mr Ryan said yesterday he would seek election. He has lived in Saanich all his life, and is a veteran of 4½ years' service with the Royal Canadian Navy He is employed by the government hydrographic service.

"I have been interested in community affairs for considerable time. I feel the council needs young men," stated Mr Ryan. He will state his platform at a later date.

There also will be contests in Ward One and Four. In Ward One, William E Bond, 1107 Palmer Road, will contest the seat held by Councillor Thomas F Alexander, who also will seek re-election.

In Ward Four, Councillor E. P Cummins will defend his position against Alexander Kilpatrick, secretary-treasurer of Ward Four Ratepayers' Association, and Albert Hull, Helmcken Road.

Small Pack

More than 53,904 tons of herring have been landed, and 1,310,215 cases of salmon packed in British Columbia since the two seasons opened this year, the chief supervisor of fisheries has announced.

The salmon pack to date compares with 1,492,314 packed during the same period of last year.

So far, coastal canneries have produced only 36,174 cases of herring.

Four Liners

Four liners carrying passengers for British Columbia will dock at Halifax instead of New York due to the maritime strike of the United States Atlantic seaboard.

The ships are the Nova Scotia, due November 20, Media, November 21; Queen Elizabeth, November 24, and Queen Mary due November 29.

Austin Curtis, passenger agent here for the Canadian National Railways, said a number of the British Columbia-bound passengers will be coming to Vancouver Island.

Wood, Paper B.C. Cargo On Aorangi

Marine News

A full list of 500 passengers, a mixed cargo of 3,500 tons and 2,000 bags of Christmas mail left British Columbia last night when the Canadian-Australasian liner Aorangi paid a brief call here on her way from Vancouver to Australia and New Zealand.

Cargo includes 580 tons of newsprint, for Sydney; more than 300 tons of ammonium sulphite for Auckland; 300 tons of paper tissue from New Westminster, and 75,000 feet of lumber for Sydney and Suva.

When she reaches Australia, the Aorangi will have completed her second postwar voyage. Eight Victorians boarded the vessel here.

Butter Cargo

The 10,000-ton Canadian Pacific cargo liner Beaverglen will lay down 500 tons of Danish butter today in Montreal. The vessel landed over 1,450 tons in October.

Surplus Power Sent to U.S.

VANCOUVER, Nov. 18 (CP).—The British Columbia Electric Company officials said today that up to 500,000 kilowatt hours of electricity are going to the Northwestern States every night.

The Canadian export of power to the United States, they said, is made possible by night surpluses created at Bridge River, 120 miles northeast of here. There is no danger that any local industry will be deprived of power.

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, Nov. 18 (CP)—Supply and demand were almost evenly balanced to the slowest stock market in three months. Changes were mostly fractional, although there were a handful of wider swings. Several timid attempts to get ahead were immediately blocked. At the same time an increase in selling pressure attracted instant support.

Winnipeg Grain

WINNIPEG, Nov. 18 (CP)—Prices generally gained on another issue in coarse grain trading on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange. Oats and barley came in for less aggressive demand, limited to small shipper and Eastern buying. Offerings in oats and barley showed a tendency to increase on commission houses and elevator interest. Trading was dull.

A.A.U. Lifts Restriction On Amateur

LONDON Ont Nov 18 (CP) The Amateur Athletic Union of Canada today eased a trifle in its interpretation of what it terms a "simon-pure" amateur

After an hour's discussion delegates approved a resolution declaring that athletes who compete with or against professionals in sports not under the jurisdiction of the A.A.U. will "suffer no penalty." At present sports controlled by the A.A.U. are. Track and field boxing wrestling, weight-lifting, fencing and gymnastics Previously A.A.U.-registered athletes were liable to suspension for intermingling with professionals.

Prof Nelson C Hart of London, Ont first vice-president of the A.A.U., declared the resolution would not impair the amateur status of athletes coming under the jurisdiction of the A.A.U. who wish to take part in future Olympic Games "Nothing will interfere with their amateur standing as long as they do not receive payment for their participation in sport," he said.

George C Machuot of Montreal, president of the union, made a plea for a "better understanding" between all amateur sports governing bodies in Canada and a "revival of amateur sport in Canada, in his presidential address.

Club Named For Canada By C.A.H.A.

TORONTO, Nov 20 (CP)—Sudbury Wolves, guided by Max Silverman, president of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association, will represent Canada in the world hockey championships at Stockholm next February

Silverman was authorized at the last annual meeting of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association to form a team to take to the championship games

The Wolves will start training at Copper Cliff, Ont., late this month and will sail from New York December 28 with the American entry

The Czech team—coached by Mike Buckna, formerly of Trail, B.C. beat out Canada's R.C.A.F. Flyers for the world championship in Prague last Winter, but lost to Flyers in the Olympic Games.

The 1950 world championships will be held in the United States. The competition is under the auspices of the Ligue Internationale de Hockey Sur Glace, an organization comprising representatives from 20 countries.

Artificial Leg No Handicap

LLOYD Vivian, 18-year-old captain and inside wing of Burlington High School's football team, has proved that loss of limb does not necessarily mean relegation to sidelines as far as sport is concerned. Lloyd lost left foot at two years of age when he wandered into hayfield and was caught in mower being driven by his father. He is 60-minute man on football team and coach says he is equal of any player he ever handled Lloyd also plays good game of hockey, can high jump almost five feet, is excellent swimmer and star softball catcher He lives in little town of Tansley near Hamilton, Ont. Ted Pollock and Roy Smith, while Simpson and Dick Birch will face Williams and Thompson.

Cancel City Match; District XI's Play

Tomorrow's Coast Soccer Called Off—All-Star Benefit at Royal Athletic Park

Final game of the Coast Soccer League's first-half between Vancouver City and Victoria United scheduled for Royal Athletic Park tomorrow has been canceled, it was announced last night by Ed MacKenzie, United secretary In its place will be the match, previously scheduled for Sunday, between two district league all-star clubs in aid of the League of Rose's Polio Fund

Cancelation of the Coast League game was made late Wednesday night and is the result of the current muddle in the loop's affairs

Bill Findler, Coast League secretary, telephoned Mackenzie stating that the City match had been canceled and that St Andrews would play Saturday in a second-half match instead The change in plans was caused by a somewhat unusual set of circumstances

Coast League officials had hoped to go ahead with an Anderson Cup game in Vancouver tomorrow but still has to thrash out some particulars with the B.C. Soccer Commission. It was then decided to continue with the second half

To do this, it was necessary to bill Vancouver City against North Shore on the Mainland and send St Andrews to Victoria New Westminster Royals were admitted on a trial basis for the first-half only and their status as a fully qualified member of the league has not yet been established This will probably be effected at a special meeting of the Coast League on Monday but until it is done the Royals can't play any second-half matches

United officials informed Findler that they would not play Saturday, believing that the extra lay-off would help the club. They reported that both Gordie Bell and Red McMillan would be out of action with injuries and that they felt it would not be wise to bring the Scots over on such short notice Unsettled weather conditions also probably played a part in the decision The result of all this No Coast soccer this week

LOOK FOR PLAYERS

Don McDiarmid United president, stated last night that Manager Roy Barnes would attend the meeting Monday and that a serious attempt will be made to bring in two or more calibre players in order to strengthen the club at once Barnes will see what can be done on the trip to the Mainland

With Royal Athletic Park available, Reg Clarke, secretary of the Victoria and District Football Association, announced that the all-star match would be played there tomorrow, commencing at 2.15 p.m.

Clarke also reported some line-up changes for the fixture Roy Bland and Ray Oliver will replace George Kolai and Don Knoppell on the City All-Stars' with Henry Slater and Len Scott added to the line up Arnie Ferguson will replace Bert Oxley for the "Suburban All-Stars."

Full Stadium Assured In East Final

OTTAWA, Nov 18 (CP) Football tickets for the Hamilton Tigers-Ottawa Rough Riders Eastern football championship Saturday are hotter than a July sidewalk.

With only 300 reserved seats available today some 2,000 hopefuls formed a two-block lineup at a Sparks Street store.

These eager beavers wound up mostly with bleacher seats for the first Eastern final Ottawa has seen since 1941.

Although one report not confirmable here—placed the odds at two-to-one for Riders, most Ottawans were willing to wager only even money against a team which their club defeated inconclusively 13-7 in a preseason exhibition.

Riders, who have been reported against denials by club officials to have been betting heavily on themselves during the season, were appearing none too confident. At a daylight workout today Coach Wally Masters reiterated previous warnings that Frank Filchock's Tigers are a tough team

The following officials have been selected to handle the game:

Umpire Johnny Munro, Toronto, and Bob Leith, St Thomas, Ont; referee: Rec Crichton, Toronto; head linesman: Alec Hayes, Sarnia, Ont.

Busy Williams In K.O. Victory

PHILADELPHIA Nov. 18 (AP) Lightweight Champion Ike Williams pounded Billy Nixon into submission in 1 40 of the fourth round of a scheduled eight-round non-title fight tonight Williams weighed 139, Nixon 142.

Williams floored Nixon three times, twice in the third round and once in the fourth

It was Williams' 16th successive victory and his second non-title conquest in a week.

A crowd of 4,400 paid $7,985 to see the fight

Stampeder Fans Planning To Shoot Works in East

CALGARY, Nov. 18 (CP) Hundreds of red-hot grid fans tonight gave Calgary's rollicking Stampeders a rousing send-off in their bid for Dominion football laurels

"Dust off a spot for that Grey Cup," was the confident shout of the grinning Western champions as they forced their way through throngs of well-wishers to board a train for the East,

Stampeders will arrive in Toronto Sunday morning and leave immediately for Oakville, Ont, There they will hold their final week of workouts at Appleby College for the November 27 final at Toronto.

SCOUT EASTERN GAME

At the same time, Coach Les Lear, Quarterback Keith Spaith and Club President Tom Brook boarded a plane to fly to Ottawa. They will scout the Eastern final between Ottawa Rough Riders and Hamilton Tigers at Ottawa Saturday.

"I don't think they'll be able to change their tactics with only a week between Eastern and Canadian finals," Lear said before leaving "We should learn plenty in scouting this game"

Reflecting on possible changes in tactics by either Ottawa or Hamilton, Lear said, "I hope they do try to fool us by switching for the team making late changes can run into a lot of trouble that way"

Lear, continuing his drive to bring the Cowboys to the peak of their game for the Fall grid classic called a surprise full-dress workout fewer than six hours before the club was scheduled to depart. The squad will go through stiff calisthenics drills at every stop of 20 minutes or longer during the trip East

SEEK TRANSPORTATION

Calgarians, eager to escort the Grey Cup back West personally, are besieging rail and airline officials for transportation into the Eastern football ramparts for the Dominion final

A special train carrying at least 250 fans—all garbed in colorful cowboy outfits will leave here November 23 to arrive in Toronto about 24 hours before game time

Cowboy fans are shipping 20 horses and a chuckwagon east to escort Stampeders to Varsity Stadium in true Western style.

Trans-Canada Air Lines reported another group of enthusiasts has chartered a 21-passenger plane for the trip T.C.A. said a 40-passenger North Star airliner might also be pressed into service if the flood of requests for accommodation continued.

Gene Bearden Fixing to Be Another Dean

NEW YORK Nov 18 (NANA) Gene Bearden, according to The Baseball Digest, is having trouble remembering his birthday or birthplace. This is not an entirely new stunt. Dizzy Dean had the same problem when he went to the Cardinals' training camp as a rookie in 1931

Dean, a much-heralded rookie was besieged by reporters and obligingly told them anything he thought they might want to hear Later, the scribes discovered they had been hoodwinked. He had given his name as Jay Hanna to one group and Jerome Herman to another What's more, he gave out conflicting dates and places for the occasion of his birth.

Naturally, the scribes were more than a little perturbed

"What do you mean, I gave out lies?" Dean said, when confronted with his conflicting stories. "Them ain't lies. Them's scoops."

It is hard to tell whether Bearden is kidding the writers, but it really doesn't make any difference. The fans get a lot of fun out of such things, especially during the long winter hot-stove sessions. Besides, Bearden never did get the credit due him until the final ten days of the season when he pitched and won the key games for the Indians.

He is undecided as to three birthplaces and dates. They are Helena Ark, Lexa, Ark and Dalton, Ga He says he was born on August 5, August 22, or sometime in September, 1920

Wills Believes Charles Able to Dethrone Louis

NEW YORK, Nov 18 (NANA) Harry Wills, the old Brown Panther from New Orleans, believes Ezzard Charles, 175-pound Cincinnati negro will lift the heavyweight crown from the aging brow of Joe Louis if they meet next June

Wills delivered this opinion after considerable urging while speaking of matters fistic at the Manhattan Beach Veterans' Hospital the other night Harry was, as he has been scores of times one of several sports writers and sports figures who do what they can to entertain hospitalized veterans

The famed negro heavyweight always has been extremely popular on such hospital visits. He should be for Harry still is the straight-talking, amiable fellow he always has been

"Father Time will get Joe, just as he gets everyone else if Joe stays in the ring long enough, said Wills "That old man with the white beard is the real champion of the world. He beats all of em' You can't even get a draw with him

"I stood Old Father Time off a long time, but I finally decided to hang up the gloves in 1927, after 21 years of fighting I was 38 then and knew it was time to quit"

Today, nearing the 60 mark Wills is still a fine physical specimen He hasn't run to fat or do so many retired ring veterans Harry now weighs 245, only 20 pounds above his best fighting weight in his lusty prime He still goes on an annual fast, lasting from three to four weeks, during which he eats nothing at all and drinks only water. He feels that fasting plus moderation in all things, is the secret of his grand physical condition.

"Louis can still hit said Wills "So can I But when you get along to 33 or 34 years of age you just can't take punishment or move and hit with the speed you had when you were younger Father Time slows you down Joe already has shown that he can't move as he did in his younger years

"If he were boxing a big slow-moving fellow like Joe Baksi he might get by But this Ezzard Charles is too fast Joe would be much heavier than Charles, but people forget that weight isn't everything.

"It doesn't make any difference how hard you can punch if you can't hit the other fellow I think that, if Charles moves around, he will win sure and maybe knock Joe out Billy Conn showed in his first fight with Louis how speed and cleverness can baffle Joe. Conn had that fight won as long as he stayed on the move But when he went flat-footed and tried to slug with Louis he was knocked out"

Another way in which Wills differs from so many retired fighters who were top-liners in their day is that he has no financial worries

"It's too bad you didn't come along 15 or 20 years later than you did," said one of the veterans, meaning that Harry was not lucky enough to earn any of those huge purses

"Yeah, maybe that's right," agreed Wills. "But just the same I have no kick coming I worked often and I put away enough to see me through. I have enough to live comfortably and I have my health. What more can one ask?"

EASY $50,000

"It's too bad you never got to fight Dempsey, Harry," said someone else. "Do you think you could have beaten Jack?"

"I'm not going to say anything about that," replied Harry. "I wanted to fight Jack and Jack, I'm sure, wanted to fight me. But it just wasn't to be and I'm not going to talk about might-have-beens. After all, I did get $50,000 for signing to fight Jack. That was the money put up by Floyd Fitzsimmons for me as a guaranty for a fight with Jack in Michigan City. As you know, the fight fell through but I got the $50,000 It was the softest money I ever picked up

U.B.C. Icemen Top Cubs. 8-5

NEW WESTMINSTER, Nov 18 (CP) University of British Columbia Thunderbirds tonight flashed four goals in the third period to defeat New Westminster, 8-5, in a senior B Hockey League fixture It was the Cubs first defeat at the hands of the Birds in three years of Senior B play.

Hass Young, a former Kansas City Pla-Mor, sparked the Birds' attack, scoring two goals and assisting on another Team-mate Bob Koch, late of the Pacific Coast Hockey League, also scored two counters for the U.B.C. crew.

Norm Larree led the Cubs' scoring parade with one goal and three assists His linemate "Flem" Langton scored two The victory gave the Birds undisputed second place in the league, behind Vancouver Indians.

Filchock's Arm Main Hope For Tiger Win

HAMILTON, Ont Nov. 18 (CP)—On the strong right arm of 31-year-old Frank Filchock rests the main hope of Hamilton Tigers for an upset victory over Ottawa Rough Riders Saturday in the Eastern Canada football final

The former star of the professional New York Giants attempted 130 passes in nine scheduled games in the Ontario Rugby Football Union this season He completed 63 and only nine were intercepted He pitched 24 touchdown passes.

He had less passing success in two games against Toronto Beaches-Indians in the O.R.F.U. playoffs, but that was due mainly to wet weather and a sloppy field. In Toronto, on a muddy field, he attempted only two passes which were incomplete In Hamilton, in mud again, he threw eight passes, completing four two for touchdowns.

Filchock himself, quarterback and coach of the team which was unbeaten and untied in its 11 O.R.F.U. games, doesn't expect to play the game single-handed

"We will have 12 men on the field at all times and it's up to every man to play his part," he said today. "If they do, we have a grand chance of winning"

Tillicum Athletic Club's Division III juvenile soccer club will play an exhibition game at Heywood Avenue against the Division II Oreneks on Sunday. Game time is 1 p.m

Louis Exhibition Garners $47,591

CLEVELAND, Nov 18 (AP)—Jimmy Bivins of Cleveland opened a cut above Joe Louis' left eye last night as the heavyweight champion resumed his exhibition tour in a no-decision six-rounder at the Arena before 10,086.

The wound was the one Louis received in an exhibition with Johnny Shukor at Boston, November 8, when the two accidentally bumped heads.

The gross gate was announced as $47,591

Veteran Fighter Stops Contender

BOSTON Nov. 18 (AP)—After giving away 12½ pounds and almost that many years, Ralph Zanelli of Providence, R.I., gained a technical knockout verdict over middleweight title contender Anton Raadik of Chicago, in the fifth round of their scheduled ten-round feature boxing bout tonight at the Boston Garden

Zanelli weighed 147½ to Raadik's 160

Raadik, who boasts that he floored Middleweight Champion Marcel Cerdan three times in Chicago a few months ago, took four nine-counts

Joe Ross Starts Crusade to End Bickering in Canadian Sports

TORONTO, Nov. 18 (CP) A co-ordinating body to end bickering in Canadian sport and correlate all activities relating to physical development of Canadians, is the aim of Joe Ross, grey-thatched former Calgary school teacher, now spending his holidays in the interests of such a crusade.

Joe, who has had the idea in mind since shortly after the Great War, is acting chairman of the National Council of Physical Fitness, and he has invited representatives of 32 amateur and professional governing sports bodies to meet in Ottawa January 7 and 8

Director of health and recreation in Alberta, Ross will visit London, Ont, Montreal, Ottawa, Halifax and Moncton to obtain ideas for the agenda of the Ottawa meeting before he heads home next week He arrived in Toronto today after a tour of the West

He considers the council a neutral organization and thus one of the few which could get the governing sports bodies together If a co-ordinating body grows out of the Ottawa meeting he hopes to eliminate such bickering as transpired between the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada and the Canadian Olympic Association over the Dominion's Olympic participation in 1948

As to his own council which started in 1944, under a Federal Act, seven of nine provinces now participate and receive Dominion Government grants to sponsor physical fitness programs. Ontario and Quebec have yet to come into the fold and their annual share of the grant is about $75,000 each. The money at present is set aside.

WON'T INTERFERE

At the council's tenth meeting recently the following statement was recorded to eliminate any misunderstanding of the council's purpose in calling the Ottawa conference

"The N.C.P.F., and the Department of National Health and Welfare have no desire, nor will they accept any responsibility for governing sports in Canada. Their objective is to lend every possible assistance to enable the various sports governing bodies to co-ordinate their efforts and to assist them in co-operating with each other so that the work of all may progress."

Ross' agenda will not be completed until after his tour, but subjects likely to be discussed include Canada's participation in international sport; interference and exploitation of high school athletes by outside organizations, special transportation rates for sport teams and fans similar to a system in vogue in Sweden: subsidization and taxation of sport; commercial sponsorship in sport and responsibility of training coaches.

Writer Claims Famed Pick-Off Play Cut Out of Series Film on Orders

NEW YORK, Nov. 18 (AP) Sports Columnist Jimmy Powers of The Daily News today says that the controversial Feller - to - Boudreau pickoff play at second base in the first game of the world series will not appear in the official movies of the series.

"I've never seen the film," Ford Frick, president of the National League, said "I do know that there was absolutely no censorship of it by anybody" Any report to the contrary, he said, "is strictly an untruth"

Powers writes:

"We would like to believe Frick's protestation that he did no censoring of the 1948 film and the blame, if any, should be laid on the doorstep of another employee, Lew Fonseca But the record plainly shows Frick has been guilty of censorship and high-handed acts in the past. The most notable was his attempted gagging of Dizzy Dean"

Fonseca is director of the major league's motion picture division which made the official movies

Powers continues

"Now we go to Fonseca who says, 'In my 14 years of making movies, both league presidents have always left everything to my judgment'

"When pressed as to the existence of film showing the play he concedes, 'It so happens that I do have a wide angle shot of this particular play' He adds that it does not bring out the details 'that one would find if a telephoto lens had caught the play' So, he is not going to use it.

"So, then, there is a movie of the play from a modern wide-angle lens, but it will not be shown because, in Mr Fonseca's judgment, it does not bring out the details a telephoto lens would bring out. What is there left for the average fan to think? Obviously, the wide-angle footage is distasteful to Mr Fonseca Fans might look at it and feel Umpire (Bill) Stewart had made a mistake.

"We would like to bet, that if the film showed the umpire was correct in his call, it would be in the official movie"

Warwick Adds To Point Lead

By The Canadian Press

Grant Warwick, Boston right winger, took a commanding lead in the National Hockey League scoring race last night with two goals to increase his total points to 18. Teammate Eddie Sandford picked up an assist to take sole possession of the runner-up spot while Joe Carveth, Montreal, sniped one goal to enter a third-place tie with Chicago's Doug Bentley.

The leaders:	G.	A.	Pts.
Warwick, Boston	8	8	16
Sandford, Boston	6	7	13
Carveth, Montreal	7	5	12
Bentley, Chicago	4	8	12
Reay, Montreal	2	9	11
Kennedy, Toronto	5	5	10
Babando, Boston	5	5	10

Haldorsen Stars

HOUSTON Texas, Nov. 18 (AP) Leonard (Doc) Haldorsen put on a one-man show tonight to lead Houston Huskies to a 4-3 victory over Fort Worth Rangers in a United States Hockey League game before 2,575 fans.

Haldorsen scored three goals and assisted in the fourth Houston marker by Johnny Horeck

Rudy Bordeur, Fred Weaver and Bill Cupolo scored for Fort Worth.

Rates Riders Good Enough To Take Title

MONTREAL, Nov. 18 (CP)—Ches McCance, who has played a lot of football both in the West and East, figured today that Ottawa Rough Riders should "take it all."

Uncle Ches, veteran flying wing of Montreal Alouettes, made only one reservation. He doesn't know much about the Calgary wing line. If it stands up the Stampeders might win the Grey Cup final

But he is sure that the Ottawa line will prove too tough for Hamilton Tigers next Saturday, although much may depend on how hot Frank Filchock is and the condition of the field.

"It's hard to see Ottawa being beaten considering all that wing-line power," said Uncle Chester.

"It's too heavy and too tough. Then you have that Golab whacking away, and Turner, Tremblay and Karpuk running and Paffreth pitching . . . boy!"

Some of the Calgary players are no strangers to McCance He mentioned Hube Ludwig and Bert Ianone, two good boys and former Winnipeg pals of his. Then there is the ageing Fritzie Hanson, still an artful dodger.

"They say Spaith and Strode will wake up a lot of people in the East," said Chester.

Tigers Must Stop This Pair

TONY GOLAB

HOWIE TURNER

BACKFIELD stars of powerful Ottawa Rough Riders who will have to be stopped tomorrow if Hamilton Tigers expect to win Eastern grid championship and right to meet Calgary Stampeders for Grey Cup Golab's plunging ability is second to none. Turner is one of many United States players in Canadian grid game. He runs, kicks and passes with best. Both are almost certain of selection to Big Four all-stars and possibly to all-Canadian team when it is selected.

The sad dreams of two eminent pessimists almost came true last Saturday. The two pessimists were Frank Leahy of Notre Dame and Red Blaik of Army.

I spent the evening with Leahy before the Navy game. He was moaning low and also loud. "We can't beat Northwestern," he said. "We haven't the depth. We are due for a bad day. They have always been tough on us. They'll be even tougher this time. We can't win. The pressure has been on us too long."

Then Sitko was hurt in the Indiana tussle, after starring in seven straight games. Leahy admitted that Sitko was his best back, his outstanding All-America.

Sitko's speed and elusive running were sadly missed in the Northwestern game. He is one of the best backs I've seen in some years. It is Sitko who gave Notre Dame the jump in almost every contest this season.

A strong, doubly inspired Northwestern team, headed by the able Art Murakowski, almost did it. Frank Leahy barely missed his Cassandra prophecy [illegible].

BLAIK IN DESPAIR

After the Army-Stanford game, Red Blaik was imbedded in despair. "Penn will beat us," he told me. "They'll be up after the Penn State defeat and we'll be down. They are stronger than you think. Bednarik and Doonan are a team alone. We are due for a bad afternoon. Just watch and see. They'll beat us."

The colonel was almost right. He was within 30 seconds of being right. Army handed Penn two touchdowns on two wrecking tumbles, where Penn had to travel only 14 yards and one yard to score.

"That nearly ruined us," Red said later. "Fourteen points are a lot to give away to a Pennsylvania team. It was just as I told you. Penn played fine football and we played terribly—until the last few minutes. We were lucky to make it. You can say what you want to, but the strain and pressure of being unbeaten gets heavier every Saturday."

"And don't think Navy won't be up for us," Blaik said.

Anyway, here are two thankful coaches relieved of nightmares. Notre Dame can romp now against Washington and Southern California. Sitko will be back, for one thing.

Navy will fight to the finish—and pray for a miracle. Both Notre Dame and Army, Clemson and California are safe. But Michigan has a rough day ahead. Ohio State, vastly improved, fighting at home, can be filled with poison. Michigan had rough going against Michigan State and Illinois. This can be even rougher with a fine Buckeye backfield in action. Ask Illinois.

HIGH SPOTS OF ACTION

The unluckiest team of the year has been Columbia. Lou Little's Lions lost five games they might have won with an even break in luck. The Lions were the most interesting losing team football has known in many seasons. Much more interesting than most of the winners.

Clemson may take over the Southern championship from North Carolina, tied by William and Mary. The Clemson Tigers have a through ride now against Duquesne, Auburn and Citadel.

How will all this affect the Southern bowls? S.M.U. still has Baylor and T.C.U. after many close calls. Here are the leading survivors: North Carolina, Clemson, Georgia, Tulane, S.M.U., Oklahoma and Mississippi.

Penn State would be there if it weren't for the race problem. I don't believe cheerful Bob Higgins wants to tackle this again. There are six teams needed for Sugar, Cotton and Orange Bowls and we've named seven eligibles. One from this group must go. And the one won't be S.M.U., North Carolina, Oklahoma or Tulane, the only team that has stopped Mississippi.

As the waning season begins to move deeper into the shadows Army and Penn State rule the East. Princeton has taken over the Big Three, and Pennsylvania has the call in the Ivy League, although Cornell is a robust challenger.

There is little question now but that Michigan will again move well out in front as Notre Dame and Army fall back. But Army and Notre Dame are beyond their major problems as Michigan faces Ohio State, a much deeper problem.

California has only Stanford left, and Oregon, the West Coast challenger, closes out with Oregon State. Unbeaten California should be the choice here—but California didn't play Michigan. Oregon did. You can have an argument here in the Rose Bowl assignment, which now should go to Northwestern with only Illinois left. If Illinois beats Northwestern, then Minnesota, meeting Wisconsin, will move into the muddled picture.

Michigan can take over the year's high-ranking spot by beating Ohio State, with Notre Dame, Army and California trailing in about that order. Michigan has played much the tougher schedule of the four, which again is no fault of Notre Dame's.

It might be mentioned here that Bud Wilkerson's Oklahoma squad could be a match now for any of the top troop, not even barring Michigan or Notre Dame.

Don't Raise Your Boy as Goalie Warns Keeper of Ranger Nets

NEW YORK, Nov. 18 (NANA)—"Don't raise your boy to be a goalie," says Chuck Rayner, who has a pretty fair working knowledge of the trade. "The rules of hockey just make it tougher for us every year. Half the goals that get by—why, we don't even see 'em."

The keeper of the Ranger nets, who has aspired to be a forward ever since he established himself as a big league goalie, says the screen shot keeps him awake nights.

"Now you see it, now you don't," said Rayner. "Most clubs have developed the practice of getting one of their players a few feet in front of you. Then, as you move to block a shot, the player moves with you. Sid Abel of Detroit is the best man I know at this hideous art.

TOO NERVE WRACKING

"Many a night," Rayner continued, "Abel would station himself right outside my cage. And a power play would be on and he would holler to the Red Wing who was shooting, 'Get it on the nets! Get it on!' Abel figures as long as the shot is accurate he can block my view of it. There ought to be a law against that sort of stuff. Why, before the war, when I was just breaking in, goal-tending was 50 per cent less nerve-wrecking."

As is so often the case with men who work at highly skilled but little appreciated jobs, goalies are clannish. They like to weep in each other's beer, even if they play for different teams, and the other day Rayner punched the bag with Frankie Brimsek, the Boston Bruins' goalie, and Rayner was saying:

"Every year it's something else. You can't hold the puck. You can't skate outside the crease without getting whacked. You get involved in a free-for-all this year, and everybody else can get away with murder. But not us. For us it's an automatic $50 fine. What will they think of next?"

They were exchanging little angles on the trade, and Brimsek said:

"Seems to me our defencemen are making a lot of saves. Jack Crawford makes 'em for you. But the trouble is, sometimes they only deflect the shot. So, I figure it's better to be standing on that side of the net where the shot might go if it is deflected. Of course if the defenceman misses the puck entirely, I would look awful foolish."

And Tiny Thompson, who used to be one of the best goalies in the business and who now scouts for the Chicago Black Hawks, told Rayner:

"I really feel sorry for you fellows. Nowadays, when a player works the puck in close he doesn't shoot unless the goalie can't see him. It's smarter passing back so that you can block the goalie's view before shooting."

New Method For Television

By DAN ANDERSON

NEW YORK, Nov. 18 (NANA).—A new television recording method soon may make sound movies of notable events available to owners of home movie projectors. By the new process, announced by the American Broadcasting Company, the sound track is carried on film alongside the picture, instead of on separate film or records as has been the case.

The new method was developed to supply A.B.C.'s affiliated television stations not linked with the station of origin. The first important use of the films will be to let the Mid-west see reproductions of New York City's Thanksgiving Day programs.

The chief technical problem overcome by technicians in developing the process was the fact that television shows 30 pictures each second, while the standard motion-picture rate is 24.

Holding up such reproduction of regular television programs is not technical difficulties but union regulations concerning musicians and actors.

Rangers Plan to Build Supply Of American Pro Hockey Talent

NEW YORK, Nov. 18 (CP)—Will American players ever outnumber Canadians in the National Hockey League?

No hockey officials around New York are willing to make predictions on the subject but they are doing something about building up native United States talent.

Although four of the six N.H.L. teams are sponsored by American cities, there are only four American-born players in the league. And there are only a handful of Americans in the 12-team American Hockey League and eight-team United States Hockey League.

Reasons for this situation were commented on today at the weekly luncheon of the New York Hockey Writers' Association.

Lester Patrick, vice-president of Madison Square Garden, said it was just a matter of practising.

"American kids just haven't got enough ice," he said. "Why when I was a youngster we would do nothing but practise. They haven't been able to do it in the United States."

The New York Rangers, whom Patrick coached until 1946, are however, trying to do something about building up a supply of American professional hockey players.

The Rangers are the only United States N.H.L. team to inaugurate the "pee-wee" classes, which have been successful in Canada.

This year 100 kids turned out for the New Haven classes and 175 were present when a new Pee-Wee League was formed at Lake Placid, N.Y., where the Rangers conduct Spring training.

The New York club has only one American-born player—Defenceman Bill Moe. Boston Bruins have Winger Pete Babando and Goalie Frank Brimsek. Montreal Canadiens' Norm Dussault is the fourth American-born player in the leagues.

Almond Scores 12th Straight

VANCOUVER, Nov. 18 (CP)—Roy Wouters, 160-pound Montreal battler, tonight stopped Billy Corbett, 161, Seattle, in the eighth round of a scheduled 10-round main event of a boxing card here.

Favoring terrific right and left hooks that have carried him to an impressive string of victories along the Pacific Coast, the rugged Easterner left Corbett a badly-beaten fighter.

In the eight-round semi-windup Stan Almond, 117, Vancouver, ran his string of successive wins to 12 as he banged out a second round knockout over Alvin de Jaynes, 124, of Omaha.

School on Train Keeps Hilltops Up With Studies

SASKATOON, Nov. 18 (CP) — A dispatch today from the Saskatoon Hilltops, Western Canada junior football champs en route to Hamilton for the East-West junior final November 20, said a school had been set up on the train.

Seven University of Saskatchewan students on the team were receiving tutoring from Coach Bob Arn and Kent Phillips, president of the Canadian Rugby Union. The latter is a former University of Saskatchewan engineering professor, while Arn is a collegiate teacher.

Island Facing Fourth Gale Reports Claim

Warning that a fourth gale was in store for Vancouver Island came from the Vancouver weather office last night while the Island was still being rocked by the tail of the third.

The warning said that southeast gales at 40 to 50 miles an hour were sweeping down on Vancouver Island from the Queen Charlotte Islands.

Meanwhile full effects of yesterday's gale, which reached 44 miles an hour in Victoria, with higher gusts, was not known.

By midnight Victoria was still without telephone communication with Port Alberni, Courtenay or points north.

Yesterday's storm did lash Port Hardy, on northern Vancouver Island with 78 mile-an-hour blasts. It then appeared to be moving westward.

The storm was expected to die down last night, but brisk winds were still blowing at midnight.

First reported victim of yesterday's gale was the 60-foot fishpacker Lady Marr. Headed for Bamfield, on the West Coast of Vancouver Island, the vessel ran into trouble and radioed for help.

Police Search For Attacker Being Pressed

City police last night were still pressing their search for the brutal attacker of Mrs. Mary Allwood, 73-year-old pensioner who was seriously beaten in the women's comfort station behind the City Hall Wednesday.

Meanwhile a report from St. Joseph's Hospital said the victim was improved but still in serious danger.

City detectives said they had questioned two more women yesterday in their search for the unidentified blonde attacker Mrs. Allwood described to them.

The woman who found the beaten pensioner told police yesterday she was Mrs. Emma Hines, 427 Superior Street. She was questioned by Inspector Harry Mercer, chief of detectives, who is in charge of the case. Previously her identity had been unknown.

ATLAS THEATRE As rival cavalry officers, John Wayne and Henry Fonda are in the stellar cast of "Fort Apache," an exciting new production which also stars Shirley Temple and Pedro Armendariz. The story deals with the colorful tale of Indian fighting in early days of Arizona's history. The production is packed with drama and action.

OAK BAY THEATRE A penetrating and exciting glimpse into the majestic, gun-toting West of 1900 awaits those who see "Pursued." Teresa Wright and Robert Mitchum lead the cast. It is a two-fisted and turbulent tale of U.S. southwest when it was young, and centres about the Spanish-American War. Love, hatred, suspense and drama are combined to make up a film few will want to miss.

Amusements

ON THE SCREEN

Royal—"Berlin Express," with Merle Oberon, Robert Ryan and Charles Korvin.

Plaza — "Thunderhoof," with Mary Stuart, William Bishop and Preston Foster.

Atlas — "Fort Apache," with Henry Fonda and John Wayne.

Oak Bay — "Pursued," with Robert Mitchum and Teresa Wright.

Capitol—"Key Largo," with Humphrey Bogart, Edward G. Robinson and Lauren Bacall.

Dominion — "Quiet Week-End," and "Banana Ridge."

Odeon — William Shakespeare's "Hamlet," starring Laurence Olivier.

CAPITOL THEATRE The Florida Keys are a setting for "Key Largo," a story which takes place during the off-season at a resort hotel. Into the strangely quiet atmosphere creep a motley array of personalities, whose true motives soon come to the surface. Leading stars in the production are Humphrey Bogart, Edward G. Robinson and Lionel Barrymore. Among exciting parts of the picture is a gunfight taking place during a tropical hurricane.

YORK INTERNATIONAL Whether you have read Dickens or not, you will probably have heard of Nicholas Nickelby, his life and his adventures. They are brought to life on the screen in the name picture. Sir Cedric Hardwicke plays a leading role, and with him is Alfred Drayton.

PLAZA THEATRE The taut and unusual story of "Thunderhoof" deals with two men and a woman in their search for a fabulous wild horse in the Mexican wilderness. After its capture, the camera then follows the trio on a dangerous trek to the Mexican border, beset with desert heat, blinding windstorms, and jealousy. Those three persons are the only living souls seen—the first time a feature-length film has been made with so few players.

Little Stories for Bedtime - - -

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

LIGHTFOOT HAS AN EXCITING DAY

Luck is a poor thing to trust to. It is about the poorest thing to trust to that I know of. Yet to a certain extent Lightfoot the Deer had to trust to luck. He couldn't help himself. You see the hunters were after him. What for he didn't know. But that made no difference. The simple, plain fact was that they were trying their best to kill him with their terrible guns, and so he must trust to his ears, eyes, nose, and legs and also to luck if he would continue to live in the Green Forest, or anywhere else, for that matter. He must trust to his ears to catch every little sound, the snapping of a twig or the rustle of a leaf, made by a hunter trying to creep up to shoot him. He must trust to his eyes to see every moving thing near him. He must trust to his nose to catch the dreaded man smell. He must trust to his legs to get him away from danger of which he already knew. But he must trust very much to luck to keep from running into new dangers while trying to escape from one of which he already knew.

Sammy Jay had warned him of the approach of a hunter that morning. Lightfoot had first made sure that it was himself the hunter was really after. Then he had swiftly bounded away to a place where the ground was hard and his sharp hoofs would make no tracks, for he knew that it was by his tracks that the hunter was trying to follow him.

Then he lay down in some thick brush at the top of a little hill where he could look back. By and by he saw the hunter stealing along like the shadow of death, putting each foot down with the greatest care, so as not to make a sound, and all the time watching the ground for Lightfoot's tracks. He watched him reach the place where the ground was so hard that there were no tracks and there walk about in circles trying to find out which direction Lightfoot had gone.

It was very exciting. Lightfoot's heart went pit-a-pat, pit-a-pat, with excitement and fear. Would the hunter guess rightly? Would he find some little sign which would tell him what he wanted to know? He was very patient, that hunter.

"He must want dreadfully to kill me," thought Lightfoot as he watched. "I wonder why. I've never hurt him. I've never even seen him before."

Just then Sammy Jay, who had been silently following the hunter, began to scream as only Sammy can. The hunter looked up and scowled. Then with a shrug of his shoulders he turned and disappeared in the direction from which he had come. He had given up trying to follow Lightfoot that day. With Sammy Jay making such a racket and warning everyone within hearing it was no use, and he knew it. Lightfoot gave a little sigh of relief. Now he could rest in peace. He settled himself in comfort. That is, he made his body comfortable. But there was no comfort in his mind. There wouldn't be and couldn't be so long as there were hunters with terrible guns in the Green Forest.

The hunter who had tried so hard to follow Lightfoot's tracks had not been long gone when a Merry Little Breeze stole into the brush where Lightfoot was lying and tickled his nose. In an instant Lightfoot was all ears, eyes, and nose. That Merry Little Breeze had brought to him the dreaded smell of man. It wasn't the hunter he had been watching, for the Merry Little Breeze had come from another direction altogether. Probably it was another hunter.

Stronger and stronger grew the man smell. Presently Lightfoot's keen ears heard the snapping of a twig. With heart beating with fear and excitement so that it hurt Lightfoot watched. Moving among the trees he saw a hunter and, like the first one, he carried a terrible gun. But this one was not following tracks. It was plain to see that he did not suspect that Lightfoot might be near. Nearer he came and nearer. Lightfoot held his breath. Right in front of where Lightfoot lay hidden the hunter stopped to rest.

It seemed ages to Lightfoot before the hunter once more moved on. Once, so it seemed to Lightfoot, he looked straight at him. But Lightfoot didn't move and the hunter didn't see him and at last moved away. When he was out of sight, Lightfoot was shaking like a leaf. Two narrow escapes and the day not yet over! It was exciting, very exciting. And it was terrible. Cold fear clutched at his heart. He dared not move, and yet he dared not lie still.

Shot to Cost $200

DUNCAN, Nov. 18.—Archibald Reiber of Deerholme was found guilty by Magistrate G. A. Tisdale on a charge of wounding Allan Quarmby, 16, and Charles Allen Williams, 12, on Hallowe'en, and was fined $200 with costs. In default of payment, he was ordered to serve six months in prison.

Under cross-examination by R. P. Barnes, defence counsel, the youths admitted they had used a noise-making device on a window at Reiber's dwelling, and then ran to the road with some companions.

Reiber admitted that he had fired two shots from a shotgun, but claimed he had pointed the weapon to the sky.

Dr. J. J. Tassin described how he had removed shotgun pellets from young Quarmby's back, arm and hand, and also others from Williams, his companion. Evidence was also given by Constables D. Thomson and J. Meredith-Jones, Provincial Police.

Farmers Hear Potato Expert

LUXTON, Nov. 18.—Causes of potato diseases and their eradication were discussed by E. Bewell, inspector of seed potatoes for the Provincial Department of Agriculture, during a meeting of the Metchosin Farmers' Institute in Luxton Hall. Refreshments were served by the Luxton and Happy Valley Women's Institute.

Mr. Bewell stated the most common potato diseases were mosaic and black rot. He explained that scabs were often caused by the presence of alder wood ashes in the soil. He suggested planting cover crops immediately early potatoes had been lifted. He advised growers to cut diseased tops off to prevent the spread of infection, and to store potatoes without delay after digging. He believed the Great Scott variety most suitable for the district.

Get Wet Snow

LADYSMITH, Nov. 18.—A mixture of wet snow and heavy rain, accompanied by southwest winds which later shifted to southeast, fell throughout the district on Thursday. Flooded drainage ditches again caused trouble.

Former Students Renew Contacts

SHAWNIGAN LAKE, Nov. 18.—Former students of the Shawnigan Lake School renewed old friendships and contacts with pupils and the staff at their annual reunion held recently at the school. There were 34 former students in attendance, and the audience of boys and parents at a concert was reported one of the largest for many years.

Outstanding items on the program of the concert were "The Pied Piper of Hamelin," a play by Forms one and two, and "Inside Europe," a United Nations comedy featuring the Big Four, and the vetos of Molotov. Other numbers were: "Song of Welcome," by the prefects, "The History Master's Nightmare," Form six, "The Villain Foiled," Remove "A"; "The Mad Plumber of Copemans House," Ripleys House; "The Shooting of Dangerous Dan," Lake's House; "Her Shawnigan Lover," Groves House, "The Fourth Form at St. Bruno," the staff, and "The Coming Champion," Remove "B."

Bishop H. E. Sexton gave the address at a Remembrance Day Service conducted by Rev. F. E. Tomalin, vicar of St. Alban's Church, Victoria, and former chaplain of the school. At lunch following the service, guests included Bishop Seaton, Miss M. Gildea, headmistress of Strathcona Lodge School, and the following governors of the school: J. Y. Copeman, D. K. McCrae and Cmdr. H. Paterson and Mrs. Paterson. The first school fifteen played rugby with former students, whom they defeated by a score of 11-0.

Sell Flower Shop

QUALICUM BEACH, Nov. 18.—Cmdr. E. C. Hassell and Mrs. Hassell have sold Julie's Gift and Flower Shop to Miss D. Hassell, and will leave for Bartlesville, Oklahoma, via California. Mrs. Hassell will carry out pathological research work at Washington County Memorial Hospital at Bartlesville.

Weather Forecast

West Coast of Vancouver Island — Cloudy with showers. Southeast winds 50 m.p.h. decreasing to southwest 30 m.p.h. in late morning. Little change in temperature.

East Coast of Vancouver Island — Cloudy with showers. Southeast winds 35 m.p.h. decreasing in the late morning. Little change in temperature.

DO GUMS BLEED? then watch out for dreaded PYORRHEA

If your gums are sore and bleed when you brush your teeth — this is often the first sign of dreaded Pyorrhea, a bad gum infection where gums recede, pus pockets form around teeth and in time teeth get loose and have to be pulled.

So, see your dentist and start using Forhan's For The Gums at once. Forhan's not only makes teeth gleam with a beautiful sparkling lustre, it also checks bleeding gums, helps gums be firmer with a lovely healthy pinkness. Notice the difference in the way your gums and teeth soon feel and look. Recommended by Dentists.

Forhan's FOR THE GUMS

Reports Incorrect

DUNCAN, Nov. 18.—Reports that G. H. Nation had sold his 210-acre poultry farm five miles from Duncan proved to be incorrect. The property was at one time owned by L. F. Solly.

Return School Board Trustee

SIDNEY, Nov. 18.—Trustee R. H. Sansbury was reelected to the board of Saanich School District No. 63 at the annual meeting of the rural portion of the district. Major S. B. Penny was elected to replace Trustee Fred J. Baker, who resigned after nine years' service. A motion of appreciation for his services was passed.

Mrs. K. N. Sparks, secretary-treasurer of the board, referred to efforts made by trustees to secure equalization of assessments between the rural and municipal portions of the school district. She anticipated that the purchase of buses would result in a large saving in the cost of providing transportation for pupils.

It was disclosed that a ten-acre school site had been obtained on Henry Avenue at Sidney, a two-room addition would be made to North Saanich School, and the board was faced with the necessity of adding two rooms and an assembly hall to Mount Newton School. New school sites had also been obtained at Brentwood and Royal Oak.

An analysis of the budget showed rural taxes $50,627.23, municipal taxes, $57,044.01, and Government grants and special aid, $87,839.76, a total of $195,511.

To Seek Seat

LAKE COWICHAN, Nov. 18.—Vernon Weaver will retire from the Lake Cowichan Village Commission at the end of the year, and Walter Tiesu has been nominated for commissioner. Nominations must be filed by December 13, and the election will be held on December 16.

Debate on Profit

QUALICUM BEACH, Nov. 18.—Dr. L. Zorkin and B. Atharm, both of Nanaimo, conducted a debate on "What Constitutes a Just Profit?" during a meeting of the Qualicum Beach Rotary Club. F. B. Cunliffe, Nanaimo barrister, was adjudicator.

Group Selects New President

COURTENAY, Nov. 18.—P. R. Seale, Courtenay, was named president of Comox district branch of the Comox-Alberni Progressive Conservative Association at a reorganization meeting held here. Other officers elected were: Walter Trevett, Campbell River, Heber Cooke, Comox, and J. C. Brown, Cumberland, vice-presidents; and Lester Dobell, secretary-treasurer.

Committee members are: R. H. Grant, Bruce Gordon and Joseph Hitchen, Courtenay; J. B. Howse, E. G. Richardson and G. A. Ellis, Comox, Dr. J. K. MacNaughton, A. D. Clement and J. Vernon-Jones, Cumberland, C. R. Tudway, Union Bay, Darrell Bate, Fanny Bay; John Perkins and George Vanstone, Campbell River, and Kenneth Willis, Quathiaski Cove, Quadra Island. Additional executive members will be appointed from Qualicum, Parksville and Wellington.

Reece Haig, party organizer, spoke of the enthusiasm for the party throughout the province.

Mr. Seale reported on the Ottawa convention which he attended as a delegate from the Comox-Alberni riding. He also spoke of George Drew, new leader of the party, whom he described as a man of much talent and experience. He said Mr. Drew had given excellent leadership in Ontario.

"A man with a very colorful personality, He will have great personal appeal to the electorate at the next Federal election, which will doubtless come next year," Mr. Seale declared.

The Comox district branch of the association hopes at some later date to have some well-known speakers in the district for a large public meeting.

Require Funds At Courtenay

COURTENAY, Nov. 18.—John Robertson was elected president of the Courtenay Community Chest at the annual meeting held in the Elks' home. Frederick Ilaid was named secretary-treasurer. Plans were made for canvassing the city for donations to the fund. Courtenay Elks made a donation of $100 to start the fund. Elks will also distribute hampers to needy cases at Christmas.

Youth Blasts Arm

CUMBERLAND, Nov. 18.—Donald Campbell, 18, a resident of Union Bay, is recovering in Cumberland General Hospital from a hunting accident which injured his left forearm so badly that amputation was necessary.

Campbell was hunting ducks with a companion, Donald Kennedy, on Langley Lake, three miles southwest of Union Bay, at the time of the accident. He had beached his boat on a small island in the lake and had taken one shotgun from the craft. He was in the act of taking a second shotgun from the boat when the firearm discharged, sending the shot into his forearm.

The injured youth was brought to Union Bay by his companion and driven to hospital by Constable C. E. Ennals, Provincial Police.

A student at Courtenay High School, Campbell is president of the Students Council. He is active in sports, and is a member of the Cumberland intermediate basketball team.

Barren Islets Arouse Wrath

COURTENAY, Nov. 18.—Major A. M. Hilton, Royston, thinks he has a legitimate complaint against the Federal Government. It has to do with taxes. The major is owner of an undivided half-interest in two uninhabitable islets lying off Hornby Island. He has never been on either one of them, and does not think he ever will.

One of them, Flower Island, measures about four acres, and the other, Norris Rock, about half an acre. Major Hilton pays the Dominion Government $10 a year for the privilege of owning Flower Island, and $7.50 a year for the other.

"I realize I must pay land tax on them and, by a stretch of imagination, school tax, although to think that anyone will ever go to or from school from those chunks of rock is to embark on an excursion into the wildest realms of fancy," Major Hilton declared.

"So far, so good, but two years ago the Dominion Government conceived the idea of putting a light for the aid of mariners on one of the rocks, and without consideration went ahead and put it there," he added.

"Even that is all right, and there was no kick on that score until receipt of a beautifully printed yellow sheet entitled 'Assessment and Tax Notice.' That gave me the clue," he explained.

"The light was not put there for the aid of mariners at all, but as an excuse to collect taxes under the heading of what the assessor calls 'improvements'," he asserted.

"So, for a trespass by our Dominion Government on my semi-sovereign rights, I must dig up. It is styled 'tax,' which is wrong. Tribute it may be, but 'hold-up' is nearer the truth," Major Hilton charged.

Rifle Injures Child

COURTENAY, Nov. 18.—Eric Martin, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Martin, Fanny Bay, sustained a broken arm and a flesh wound in his back in a shooting accident at his parents' home.

The youngster was playing with his brother, Bruce, 7, in the bedroom of their home when one of them knocked over a loaded .22-calibre rifle which had been propped against the wall. The rifle discharged, and the bullet tore through the flesh under the young lad's left arm, broke the bone, and continued its flight until it became lodged in a chair. The chair was one which is used by the boy's mother.

Two other Martin children, a daughter, Patsy, aged one and one-half years, and a son, James, 18, were standing nearby at the time of the accident, but were not struck. The injured boy was brought to Comox Hospital by his brother, James, and was reported to be resting comfortably on Thursday night.

Enter Contest At Cumberland

CUMBERLAND, Nov. 18.—Aldermen William Henderson, James L. Brown and Fraser Watson, will offer themselves for re-election at the annual municipal balloting on December 16.

Alderman W. S. Wood, whose term still has one year to run, notified the council he intends to resign at the end of this year, as he has moved to Union Bay. Mayor Alex Maxwell was declared elected for a two-year term last December, and still has one year to serve.

Work on Lines

PARKSVILLE, Nov. 18.—British Columbia Telephone Company linemen are laboring to restore service north, south and west of Parksville and Qualicum Beach. Two gales in a row hurled many trees across telephone and power lines.

Allow Appeal At View Royal

VIEW ROYAL, Nov. 18.—An appeal of S. Edwards, 827 Craigflower Road, for permission to develop a nursery and erect greenhouses 30 by 150 feet on eight acres of property at Knolwood Road and the Island Highway, was allowed by regional planning division. Decision on applications for alteration of property categories were granted by the View Royal Board of Appeal, was deferred on two other appeals.

ROYAL THEATRE — A train of terror in "The Berlin Express." The picture, starring Merle Oberon, Robert Ryan and Charles Korvin, is the first to be filmed in Berlin since the late war. It reveals the uncertainties of the German people today, and the uphill struggle of the United States Army to restore stability. The story is an exciting and thrilling one.

Six Island R.C.A.F. Veterans To Be Presented Decorations

Five Victoria and Vancouver Island R.C.A.F. veterans and one airwoman will be invested with high honors Saturday, November 27, in Vancouver for outstanding service during the World War by His Honor Lieutenant-Governor Charles A. Banks.

In all, 39 R.C.A.F. veterans will be decorated, 33 of these with the Distinguished Flying Cross, for gallantry in action against the enemy and devotion to duty.

Names and excerpts of citations of the Island flyers receiving the D.F.C. include:

Sqdn.-Ldr. Philip D. Holmes, 625 Fort Street, "for numerous operations against the enemy . . . displaying fortitude, courage and devotion to duty."

Flt.-Lt. John Routledge Duncan, for similar action.

Flt.-Lt. William E. Walker, 2173 Crescent Road, Victoria, "for completing an operation in the course of which two convoys of mechanical transport were effectively bombed and a main road blocked."

Flt.-Lt. D. R. Stephens, R.R. No. 3, Duncan, for completing "numerous operations against the enemy in the course of which he displayed the utmost fortitude, courage and devotion to duty."

The Air Force Cross will be awarded to W.O. Henry W. Dealey, 228 Obed Avenue, Victoria, for "keen interest and outstanding ability he displayed during his tour of duty as a wireless operator."

Victoria member of the Women's Division of the R.C.A.F., Sgt. L. R. MacBride, 59 Cook Street, will be awarded the British Empire Medal. Her citation reads: "This non-commissioned officer proceeded overseas with the first draft of women's division personnel in 1942 and until her repatriation, was continuously employed at R.C.A.F. headquarters. She is endowed with outstanding talent for dealing with office administration detail and with a capacity for hard work."

The investiture will be held at 3 p.m. at the drill hall of the R.C.A.F. Station Vancouver.

Proof Needed Of Insurance

Motorists who have had their licences suspended by the court cannot drive their vehicles again until they show proof of insurance coverage, Claude Harrison, city prosecutor, warned in police court yesterday.

"Their licence remains suspended until financial responsibility is proved," he said.

Aubrey G. Lamberton, 1153 Munroe Street, found himself tangled in this situation yesterday when he appeared before Magistrate H. C. Hall and pleaded guilty to a charge of driving while his licence was under suspension.

He said his three-months licence suspension was up November 11 but since then had been unable to straighten out the financial responsibility. He said he was not aware of the situation outlined by Mr. Harrison.

Magistrate Hall fined him $35.

N. E. Ferguson To Face Trial

Norman E. Ferguson, 818 Pandora Avenue, was committed for trial on a charge of rape after a preliminary hearing in Saanich court yesterday.

Ferguson was charged when the pretty young wife of a navy man reported he had attacked her early in the morning of November 5.

The woman testified before Magistrate H. C. Hall yesterday that Ferguson had insisted on accompanying her home from downtown Victoria late in the evening of November 4. Her husband was away on a cruise to Hawaii.

"He said, 'It isn't safe for a girl to be alone,'" she testified. The attack came on the trip to her home.

Sergeant John Hamilton and Constable David Shepherd told of conversation with Ferguson after they arrested him on November 8. They concealed themselves in the woman's apartment, after she notified them that Ferguson would come there.

House System Working Well Head Declares

Reinstitution of the house system at University School, with former students of Brentwood College forming the nucleus of one of the houses, "is working out splendidly," headmaster J. J. Timmis said yesterday.

On Monday, Brentwood College students moved to their new quarters, following acceptance by the college of University School's offer. Half of the teaching staff of the college moved with the boys, and C. Genge is housemaster of the new Brentwood House. Reg. Wenman is housemaster of Founders House.

Addition of the 31 Brentwood boys boosts total enrollment at University School to 122. The Brentwood boys form the nucleus of Brentwood House. About half the student body is in Brentwood House and the other half in Founders House.

"The new arrangement is satisfactory, both in solving difficulties of Brentwood College and strengthening University School," Mr. Timmis said.

University School teams will also be considerably strengthened by the addition of new players, he said.

Teachers Vote Against Offer

COURTENAY, Nov. 18—Teachers, Courtenay School District No. 71, rejected an offer of the school board to increase the present cost-of-living bonus by $100. Voting by secret ballot, the teachers turned down the offer 48-3.

Earlier, they had requested an increase of 25 per cent in the scale awarded by a board of arbitration two years ago, basing their demand on the rise in the cost-of-living index since that time.

Following rejection of the board's offer, the teachers agreed to press for the full B.C. Teachers' Federation salary scale, and gave authority to their salary committee to present the matter to the board and to go to arbitration if necessary.

Minimum Federation salary scale calls for salaries of $1,500 to $2,000 for elementary teachers, and $1,800 to $3,200 for high school teachers.

One of the largest halibut ever caught was one weighing 700 pounds and nine feet long.

PILES

Mrs. J. O. McIvor, Regina, writes as follows: Four of my club members have taken your PYLTONE treatment on my recommendation. In each case it worked as well as mine. I've had one year of perfect health. Thanks again for your wonderful remedy." The new PYLTONE treatment gets results that last because it goes direct to the root of the internal trouble removing the cause. Plant extracts ideal help nature rebuild broken inflamed tissue. One bottle of PYLTONE (a liquid taken by mouth) you'll get the same results or money refunded at once. Your druggist has it or can order it. (Advt.)

Signatures Baffling City Office

The Government hospital insurance office here is having trouble allocating cheques sent in for premiums to the proper persons.

Many persons are sending in cheques, some with virtually undecipherable signatures. In addition, money orders are coming in with names on them that do not correspond to names listed as "heads of families" on the records.

The insurance service is asking that those who send in cheques or money orders enclose a note stating to whose name the amount is to be credited.

Would Study Grading In U.K. Schools

A study of educational standards of United Kingdom schools with a view to clearing up misunderstandings in grade comparisons between Canada and the British Isles may get under way following a motion passed at the Esquimalt Branch of the Canadian Legion.

It was felt that some civil servants had received unjustified discrimination here because their schooling grades in the British Isles were not clearly understood and could not easily be correlated with Canadian standards.

The branch endorsed a motion to request through Legion channels that the Legion inter-provincial committee on education include in its program for next year a study of this question. Its report would be used as the basis of educational qualifications for civil service examinations.

Other business at the meeting included a motion opposing only 20 per cent of civil servants being made "permanent" and recommended that the figure be raised to 50 per cent.

G. A. MacDonald, J. E. Carey and T. Sewell were named a committee to make arrangements for a children's Christmas tree party. Mr. MacDonald was also presented the past president's badge during the evening.

Alec Kilpatric and R. Brophy were appointed a committee to complete arrangements for the annual New Year's Eve Dance and members were asked to turn out for a working party.

WISBECH, Cambridgeshire, England (CP)—Wisbech Trades' Council has asked the Borough Council "recognize those whose skill and craftmanship have brought wealth and prosperity to the town" by appointing a trade union representative a Freeman as part of the borough's 400th anniversary celebrations.

Goes to Theatre Collapses, Dies

Phillip P. Ellis, about 72, of 200 King George Terrace, collapsed at the Odeon Theatre yesterday about 4:05 p.m. and was pronounced dead on arrival at the Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Full details of his family were not immediately available, but it was reported that he was survived by his widow Alice and a daughter, Betty, at home.

His body was taken to Hayward's B.C. Funeral Home, where funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Mr. Ellis was retired. He came to Victoria from Saskatchewan about seven years ago.

CLAVERING, Essex, England (CP)—Villagers are discussing how to shift gypsies encamped nearby. Farmers complain of damage to crops and poaching, and publicans refuse to serve them, but the gypsies are law abiding—and will not leave.

Coal Output In Province Drops Slightly

Provincial coal production was 134,272 long tons during October, a drop of roughly 4,000 long tons from the same month last year, it was reported yesterday by the chief inspector of Mines.

The drop was mainly due to the closing for the Winter of the Corbin strip mining operations in East Kootenay. In the same month last year the strip mines produced 13,000 tons.

Vancouver Island production during October was 40,040 long tons as against 39,956 long tons in the same month last year.

The new Tsable River mine, where development work is still being carried on, produced 3,766 long tons.

BUYS AND WHYS BY Barbara Brent

A weekly shopping and information service for today's women

MONTREAL, Nov. 19—Just imagine how long it would take you to assemble and clean the 16 choice ingredients that go into SHIRRIFF'S FRUIT PUDDING! And they're such carefully selected ingredients of top quality! Dates and raisins and currants and mixed peel—combined with a rich, spicy batter—steam cooked till the pudding is golden-brown and even textured! But wait till you TASTE Shirriff's Fruit Pudding! It has that old-time Fruit Pudding flavour and aroma that makes your house so nice to come home to of a cold blustery evening! Let this delicious fragrance greet your home-from-work husband at the door . . . often. You'll find Shirriff's Fruit Pudding at your grocer's.

A Friend Tells Me she's just given herself a new cooking motto . . . one she'll never forget. She tried several brands of corn starch . . . including BENSON'S CORN STARCH . . . and now it's "Benson's for Better Cooking" as far as she's concerned. Thousands of Canadian homemakers agree with her that Benson's is a cooking "must" . . . thousands are switching to Benson's every day. Try it — in custards — puddings or meringues. Results with Benson's are better!

The Nicest Thing Next to You is Nylon Tricot! It's at last made into lingerie that will "wear well" in your affections . . . slips, nighties and panties. The panties you know about, for C-I-L knitted nylon panties made lingerie news a year ago. You loved them for their washability, their wearability, their feather-lightness. Now you'll want slips and nighties of knitted nylon — because, properly set, they simply won't shrink or stretch and they need no ironing at all to keep them in "brand new-looking" condition. Yes, nylon tricot will wear and wear beautifully with just a fraction of the attention other lingerie requires. And, remember to look for the label "Made of C-I-L Nylon Yarn"!

Oops! . . . what a shame! The bread knife slipped and now you have an annoying cut that won't stop bleeding. No time to give it proper attention? Cheer up! . . . in a matter of seconds you can go on with your cooking chores if you apply a DALMAS FIRST AID DRESSING right away! You see, Dalmas Dressings are made with an eye to the problems of housewives. Made of a paper-thin substance that's washable, smooth, can't fray, stretches all ways and blends with your skin colouring! What more could anyone wish in a first aid dressing? That's why I think Dalmas is such a marvelous household buyword. Ask your druggist for Dalmas Dressings . . . they're antiseptic . . . they'll keep cuts clean and germ-free!

The Art of Cake Frosting is no trick, with such an easy to spread texture as this elegant Soft Chocolate Frosting. Made with BAKER'S CHOCOLATE, it has the flawless texture . . . rich flavour . . . and deep-brown colour . . . that are possible only when you use Baker's — the chocolate that's all pure chocolate.

SOFT CHOCOLATE FROSTING

1 cup sifted icing sugar
1 egg, unbeaten
1/3 cup strong coffee
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
3 squares Baker's Unsweetened Chocolate, melted
1 tablespoon softened butter

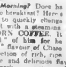

Combine ingredients in order given, beating with rotary egg beater until blended. Place bowl in pan of cracked ice or ice water and continue beating until of right consistency to spread (about 3 minutes). Makes enough frosting to cover tops of two 9-inch layers, top and sides of 8 x 8 x 2-inch cake, top of 13 x 9 x 2-inch cake, or small angel food cake. For all-chocolate flavour, substitute milk for coffee.

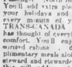

Is Your Husband A Grouch in the Morning? Does he spread gloom through the house before breakfast? Here's the easiest, pleasantest way I know to quickly change his mood. Give his spirits a real lift with a steaming fragrant cup of CHASE & SANBORN COFFEE. It will make an "early morning angel" of him for he won't be able to resist the "heavenly" flavour of Chase & Sanborn's new blend! Careful selection of rich, ripe coffee berries assures that dependable and delicious flavour. So when you put your morning coffee on to perk . . . you can be sure it will spread "early morning" cheer when it is Chase & Sanborn Coffee!

Spend a Holiday in the West Indies! It's only a few short hours away by T.C.A., the "North Star" way . . . and fares are so very reasonable! Yes, beginning December 2nd, you can fly direct from Canada to Nassau, Kingston or Trinidad . . . when you go by 40-Passenger "North Star" skyliners. Forest Fury

By OREN ARNOLD

CHAPTER V

"Thanks Sue," Bob said. "I'm sorry, but it's all right. Matter of fact, I've got a job to do myself, tonight. A selling job. I've got to convince somebody this country we live in is the happiest, best country in all the world!"

On her fifth day in Arizona, Rosemary Taylor realized that circumstance had reached out its tentacles and gripped her with diabolical force. She sat alone in her room considering the matter.

"I have less than $20.00 in cash left," she said. "I haven't a cent in the bank anywhere. And I have a western trading post on my hands."

It was a short but inclusive summary. Also, it was a challenge.

True, she might have taken some money from the post cash register or safe. She had credentials to prove her ownership of the place, had in fact already established that. But she had barely been in the post except on superficial inspection as on that first day. She had hastened away then and advertised the establishment for sale.

In her imagination she thought she could sell it in a few hours. That was how sadly little she, a New York office secretary, knew about such business detail.

She had spent money on advertisements in daily papers, and she had listed the place with real estate offices in Flagstaff. Beyond that there seemed nothing to do. Several answers to the newspaper ads came but they were just feeler inquiries from people not yet ready to commit themselves. She was hopeful at first, downcast about it as the week slipped by.

She found no time to be morose or introspective, if she had been so inclined. Ranger Bob King saw to that. Somehow this energetic young man managed to have official business near her most of the time that week. The fact that heavy rainfall on the day of her arrival in Arizona had momentarily reduced the forest fire hazard to zero, was an asset in Bob's favor. Soon, real soon, when the crisp dry winds and brilliant sun of Summer bore down, Bob and other rangers would have to be alert every second of the night and day. One careless match in this great forest area then could easily launch a million-dollar destruction.

Bob was a persistent propagandist. He loved Arizona, especially Northern Arizona, with a loyalty amounting to fanaticism. His personal manner backed up his enthusiasm so that Rosemary couldn't possibly be bored or unhappy. Sue McKee, too, had been more than hospitable and kind; she and Rosemary somehow had drifted quickly into friendship, utterly different types though they were. Mayhap this very difference accounted for it.

And Dr. Montgomery—what a prince of a fellow he had turned out to be! Even if he were a trifle—well, queer.

He was bookish. And too shy. Prone to be retiring, or to speak softly when he did speak. But he was so grateful to Rosemary for saving his life that she couldn't help liking him. He had succumbed wholly to Bob King's praise of the wild country around them. He had reported himself courteously and pleasurably to the faculty at Flagstaff College, who in turn had showed immediate hospitality of their own, escorting him to important archaeological mounds, cliff dwellings, excavations and ruins. And he had manoeuvered to see Rosemary often, too.

Without stopping to think why it was Dr. Montgomery to whom Rosemary went this morning. She drove direct to his boarding house in Flagstaff.

"Monty," she had held to her initial familiarity, "whether I want to or not, I've got to take over the post and run it."

"So," he nodded.

"But I'll like it! I'll make myself like it. I will!"

"Oh. Doubtless, Miss Taylor. You are intelligent. Adaptability is the mark of Americans everywhere. A fine trait."

"Listen, Monty, I saved your life, you say, and I sat pretty close to you in the car, shivering wet. Isn't that informality enough to make you drop this Miss? I like plain Rosemary better."

She smiled sweetly at him, then was amused to see him blush.

"Quite so," he beamed. "Miss—ah, ah Rosemary. Yes indeed! Um." He paused to swallow. "I am happy that you have decided not to sell."

"I didn't decide. My buyers decided for me. They didn't show up."

"That's disappointing. But you were a business woman in New York. You can be one here, at least until such time as—oh, what of your relatives? Can you get them to—?"

Rosemary sighed. "No. I'm alone. I have a brother—wayward, I believe, is the word for him—but he wouldn't do, even if I knew just where he was. I'm used to playing solo."

"I say, Miss Ta—Rosemary, I admire you! Your spunk is creditable, surely."

"Thanks, Monty. You don't pay many compliments. That makes them nicer."

"I am not just speaking for effect, my dear. I mean it. You are—ah, a good sport." He was unconscious of the phrase "my dear," or its possible connotations. His way was a standard schoolroom manner. But the compliment was sincere and Rosemary knew it. She smiled again.

"That funny Indian keeps our money buried," she said. "The safe is actually under the floor. The store money, I mean."

"Um." Monty looked serious. "That is perhaps wise. Best protection from theft and fire. Is there—much?"

"Several hundred dollars. Operating capital and small change."

"When there's enough, you must purchase some bonds."

"Bonds?"

"Yes, Ro—Rosemary. Or some sound investment. Surplus money must not lie idle. It is wrong in principle and in fact."

"Oh Monty! Goodness! Thank you a lot, and no fooling. I know so darn little about these things. I—I really think that's why I hesitate about taking over the store myself."

"You needn't feel concerned. You—ah—you—perhaps it would be wisest to retain the—ah, Indian. For a time, that is. Until he can assist you into the routine. I have already presumed to look about the post a bit, my dear, and I feel certain that I might suggest certain advantageous changes, in a small way, which would enhance efficiency. You see, I taught business administration for two years. Archaeology was my hobby, and it led to a specialty in itself because there was a faculty demand for it. I, ah—your store—"

"Monty, you're a prince! I'm so glad you're staying around here. I bet I ask you a million questions and—why, there's Bob!"

There, in truth, was Bob.

A beaming ultra-neat Bob, leaving a United States Forest Service automobile and coming toward them, smiling.

"Hi kids!" he boomed. "Beautiful day. How's the big Indian trader, ma'am? And is the archaeology market up today?"

Bob's geniality was contagious. He held the easy assurance of a man accustomed to doing things. Self-reliance, which might have been mistaken for conceit, was strong in him and the masculine nature of it was entrancing to Rosemary.

"Had a hunch I might locate you through the professor," he was saying now, "even if I didn't actually find you here."

"We were talking business," Rosemary put in. "Monty is my business advisor and—"

"Drop all that," Bob commanded, grinning. "You're going for a horseback ride. I have half a day off duty. Let's go."

"Oh. Oh, all right! It'll be fun. Come on, Monty!"

Without further ado she grabbed Dr. Montgomery's arm and literally forced that reticent one to trip down the boarding-house steps with her and Bob. Bob glanced at Monty, and at Rosemary, but Rosemary was talking gaily.

"Junior Battery" Gunners Use New Radio

Recruits Between 17 and 19 Wanted For Fifth Regiment Junior Battery

Formation of 160 Junior Battery of the Fifth (B.C.) H.A.A. Regiment, Royal Canadian Artillery, was announced last night by Army authorities.

A Cadet Corps, with slightly different uniforms but receiving approximately the same training as the Junior Battery has also been formed. It was stated the battery and corps had been formed to fill the needs of young men of high school age. Those above the age of 17 and not more than 19 years old will be taken into the battery while those below 17 may become cadets.

Parade nights will be held on Friday evenings at the Bay Street Armoury. Gunners of the new battery may also parade with the Fifth Regiment on regular Tuesday night parades, it was announced.

New equipment has been obtained for the Junior Battery, and training will begin at once in drill, gunnery, radio, driving, communications and radar. A full sports program has been arranged to include rugby, basketball, swimming and fencing.

Major J. Farnsworth, second in command of the regiment, said the Fifth Regiment was the oldest unit in Victoria. It was first organized as an infantry unit, then as coast anti-aircraft, and recently as a heavy anti-aircraft unit. The regiment is composed of three batteries. The Junior Battery is to be one of the three.

Friday, November 10, will be open house at the Armoury, when members of the new battery will be on hand to exhibit equipment to visitors. Young men interested in joining the Junior Battery should call at the Armoury on Friday night for information. The new battery can recruit from 150 to 200 men.

House Design Said Changed By Inventions

Advent of radio, television and other improvements in present-day houses has necessitated many changes in house designing, J. H. Wade, architect, told the Victoria Real Estate Board recently.

Radios, he explained made proper acoustics necessary in rooms, while television will require one corner of a living-room to be easily darkened.

Radiant heating, being used in many houses today is nothing new, Mr. Wade said, as it was used by Romans more than 2,000 years ago.

He said eventually houses would be heated from a central "radio station type" powerhouse, and illuminated by glowing paint. The radio-activated heating, he explained would probably come from small strands of specially irrated metal embedded in the walls. "Power" for the strands would be sent out from the central power unit.

This method, the speaker said, was successfully demonstrated during the war.

F. J. Popham Selected Convention Delegate

F. J. Popham was one of three delegates named this week by the Victoria Provincial Progressive Conservative Association to attend the annual meeting of the British Columbia Association next year.

Other delegates elected were Mrs. J. Taylor and Harold Kerr.

Mayor Supports Food Drive

UTMOST support for newly-formed United Emergency Fund for Britain was urged yesterday by Mayor Percy E. George. Donations for fund can be given at City Hall to help supply gift food parcels to those in Britain not already receiving such assistance. The mayor is seen with Brigadier W. K. G. Colquhoun, chairman of Victoria branch of the U.E.F.B. Mayor said in a statement he was "keenly appreciative of aims and objects of present fund in that, to all intents and purposes, it is continuation of Mayor's Fund for Parcels to Britain which I instituted in Victoria and which has spread across Canada." Mayor's Fund was closed to concentrate support for U.E.F.B.

Court Kibitzing Not "Cricket" Poker-Playing Prisoner Finds

Kibitzing in a poker game or from the prisoner's box at police court is no way to get along in the world.

A prisoner in police court yesterday who offered a comment from the box will probably find that out this morning when he comes up for sentence.

The wife of the accused, who charged him with failing to provide money for her as ordered, had asked that he be sent to jail.

"I think they ought to put my wife in jail," the accused said as he was on his way from the prisoner's dock to his cell.

Magistrate ~~H. C. Hall frowned~~ and replied, "I'll take that remark into consideration when passing sentence tomorrow."

"What I meant, Your Honor . . ." began the accused in an attempt at explanation. But the magistrate was on his way out of the court.

The accused was picked up at 1 a.m. yesterday after a poker game in which he said he won $32. He said he was not well enough to work.

Magistrate Hall said a man who can sit up until 1 a.m. playing poker could go to work.

Re-elect W. S. Oliver President Of B.C. Government Employees

William S. Oliver has been re-elected president of the British Columbia Government Employees' Association, Returning Officer Fred A. White said yesterday. John Gowan was named vice-president and Thomas S. Flynn, treasurer.

All officers, and 19 Provincial Government departmental representatives, including nine women, were elected by acclamation.

The new officers will officially take over at the next meeting sometime next month.

Departmental representatives are as follows:

J. Robert Coates, lands; William J. D. Hoskyns, labor; George B. Ford and J. S. Beam, Liquor Control Board; Robert Turner, health and welfare (general); Jay Gay, education (Weiler Building); I. J. R. Dryden, health and welfare (social welfare); Claire G. Scott, health and welfare (vital statistics); M. Sommerville, agriculture; Leslie Harrison, public works (inside); Humphrey W. Mellish, Public Utilities Commission and municipal affairs; Frank H. Carr, finance; Arthur H. Price, motor vehicle branch; William D. Morry, attorney-general (court house); C. O. Harrison, public works (outside); Dorothy A. Baker, education general (Legislative Buildings); Miss Gower, mines; Rae Smith, Provincial Police, and Norman Wharf, forest service.

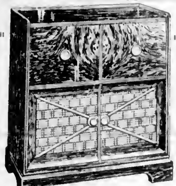

Caused Injuries To Colonel; Fined

Bawa Singh was fined $75 in Provincial Police court at Royal Oak yesterday for causing injury by wilful misconduct. His alternative is to serve one month.

The charge arose from an incident on November 3 when he started up his car when Colonel G. B. Scott was on the running board.

Tells Police Of Speeches

A man has been making subversive and anti-Semitic speeches in a Yates Street cafe according to a complaint to city police yesterday from a Vancouver visitor, who declined to give his name. He said he heard the speeches both Tuesday and Wednesday.

New Formula Evolved To Keep India in Fold

By PERTINAX

PARIS, Nov. 17 (NANA). A radically new formula has been evolved in London which gives the British Empire a new lease on life—by granting the King power such as the Monarchy has not enjoyed for over two centuries. It has been learned from an unimpeachable source some crucial details of the agreement reached by the British Cabinet with Indian Premier Jawaharlal Nehru in bringing that impending republic back within the Commonwealth. And the agreement may have a far wider application.

The background is that on January 22, 1947, the constituent assembly in New Delhi resolved that India would cease to be a Dominion within the Empire and become instead a sovereign, democratic republic. Now a formula has been tentatively accepted by Nehru to bring India back into the fold.

CITIZENSHIP

The device is "Commonwealth citizenship" independent of all links of allegiance to the Crown, although the British Monarch would, by the agreement, act as guarantor of the civil rights accruing to anyone possessing Commonwealth citizenship.

Now this is a very striking innovation. For two centuries, ever since Cabinet Government was introduced in Britain, the King has been unable to take any initiative except on the responsibility of a minister answerable to parliament. The formula endorsed by Nehru, British Premier Clement Attlee and the British Cabinet would permit direct appeal to the King—by-passing the Cabinet—by any Indian whose civil rights are being infringed in England, or by any Britisher similarly wronged in India.

That isn't all. Nehru agreed that in India "the King should be styled "First Citizen of the Commonwealth" and "Fountain of Honor." Another demand by the British Cabinet was that the President of the Indian Republic should be authorised to become a member of the Privy Council of the King. Nehru reserved that point for subsequent decision.

The decisions that Nehru reached on the spot in London are, of course, conditional upon confirmation by the New Delhi Cabinet. But this endorsement is considered certain.

There is reason to believe that Commonwealth citizenship would be held sufficient justification for a continuation of imperial preference in customs duties put into force in 1933 as one outcome of the Ottawa conference of that year.

STEP UP MEAT PRODUCTION

CANBERRA (CP)—A British food mission, after a 10,000-mile tour of Australia, urged an immediate start on a planned programme of increased meat production. The mission thinks the Commonwealth can increase pork production in 18 months and beef in four to five.

PLYMOUTH, England (CP) — H.M.S. Impregnable, naval establishment at Plymouth, is to become the home of the port's 400 Wrens. Naval wags suggest the name should be changed before the Wrens take up residence.
